CROOKED COPS ARE MENACED BY JONES ACT

Officers Who Protect Bootleggers Now Facing Federal Prosecution WORKS UP SENTIMENT
Number of Cities Aroused by Laxity of Authorities and Push Action

(In this, the third of a series of four dispatches on prohibition enforcement, the principal difficulty is with the local governments and the Jones law now is to be invoked to enforce co-operation with federal machinery.)

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Spectacular and sensational as have been the gang wars in Chicago, federal officials here believe that there are other cities in which the liquor traffic is even worse than in Chicago. They say that in some cities the liquor chiefs are so well entrenched against their own rivals that the trade goes on quietly and without challenge. In fact, this is the condition in most of the cities of the United States which are in the wet area. The number of speak-easies is difficult to estimate and the beer traffic continues unabated.

In these localities no serious effort has ever been made to enforce the law. Not only has it been difficult for the federal government under its present system of operation to prosecute those whom it has charged with the law violation, but it has also been handicapped by the failure of local authorities to cooperate and prosecute under state laws.

FIRST PLAN FAILS
The original conception of those who framed the eighteenth amendment was that in giving the states and the federal government concurrent jurisdiction, the states would take care of the majority of the violations. As it is now, the tendency is to shift the burden to the federal government, which is without a police force adequate to take care of the problem.

Local politics is regarded as the chief obstacle to law enforcement. Police officers who are working with the bootleggers have until this time been more or less immune, because it was difficult to get evidence of actual participation by them in the sale of illicit liquor, and when cases were brought the payment of a fine enabled most of them to escape. The new Jones law will make it possible for the federal government to prosecute local police who are derelict in their duty and actually put them in jail. The theory is that any one who aids in the manufacture, sale, transportation or distribution of alcoholic beverages without a permit is aiding in the commission of a felony, which means a jail sentence.

BLOW AT LOCAL COPS
The Jones law, in other words, is counted on to strike terror into the hearts of local policemen throughout the country, who now may be brought into federal courts and put behind bars if they are convicted. In a number of cities public sentiment is being aroused against local authorities who are lax in the enforcement of prohibition laws. Now that it has become apparent that this laxity has meant the violation of other important laws, some of the communities are beginning to see the dangers of indifference. In some instances, lack of courage on the part of local chiefs is responsible for failure to enforce. The federal government is ready at any time to furnish assistance in those communities where it is desired.

Unquestionably there has been some graft and corruption in the federal service itself, and efforts are being made to reduce it to a minimum. The federal officials who may be caught accepting a bribe would hitherto have been prosecuted under the conspiracy statutes, under which proof is always difficult. With the Jones law, however, permitting a jail sentence for any one who aids in the violation of the law as it relates to transportation, manufacture, sale, distribution or importation, the federal agent who betrays his government may find himself in jail.

France Prepares Last Tribute To Marshal

Chinese Are Near Start Of New War

Struggle Between Nationalists and Wuhan Faction Thought Inevitable

Nanking, China.—(AP)—War between the nationalist government and the faction controlling the Wuhan cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang is believed here to be inevitable.

President Chiang Kai-Shek Thursday evening issued an unofficial statement reviewing the situation in the province of Hunan, severely condemning Generals Hu Tsung-Tu and Yen-Chi and other supporters of the Wuhan group.

President Chiang declared that the nationalist government of China was a "revolutionary and would not hesitate to use "revolutionary methods."

This was considered as an indication that active measures against Wuhan may be instituted shortly. Marshal Li Chai-Sun, governor of Canton and one of the most important leaders of the Kwangsi group, has been detained by the authorities here but is stated to be in no personal danger.

Hankow, China.—(AP)—The opinion here is that war with the nationalist government is inevitable.

GERMANY IS GIVEN OFFER FOR DEBTS
Reichsbank President Takes Back Proposal for New Annual Payments

Paris.—(AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, will take with him to Berlin Thursday night, it is learned, the officer of the allied experts on reparations to accept 1,750,000,000 marks (about $420,000,000) as the figure for the German reparations annuities.

The allies offer carried with it various other conditions which were not revealed.

Dr. Schacht has given no indication that the German government will accept the allies' offer. He has telegraphed Dr. Rudolf Hilferding, minister of finance, to call a meeting at Berlin of the great provincial industrialists and heads of the German institutions so that he may explain the present situation of the reparations negotiations.

The German banker asked this meeting deliberately, it was understood, so that responsibility for acceptance or conditional refusal would be widely shared not only by the government but by the great leaders of German industry and finance.

The figures of 1,750,000,000 marks is understood to represent reparations payment of all categories. This would entail a reduction of the present annuities under the Dawes plan of between seven and eight hundred million gold marks.

KOHLER PLEASED BY BUDGET MEASURE VOTE
Madison.—(AP)—Governor Walter J. Kohler Thursday expressed approval and appreciation for the passage by the senate Wednesday of the budget and highway bills. The executive said he considered it "fine that they have cooperated so well on these measures. It was apparent that Senators Carroll and Johnson were in favor of the bills except that they wanted the ex-officio members of the highway commission continued with salaries."

FOCH FUNERAL SERVICES SET FOR TUESDAY

Thousands Visit Home Where Famous World War Leader Died Wednesday

Paris.—(AP)—The funeral of Marshal Foch has been set for Tuesday next. The body is to lie in state under the Arc de Triomphe for 24 hours previously. It has not yet been decided whether the religious ceremony shall be held in Notre Dame cathedral or in the Chapel of the Invalides.

To the home where Foch died an unending succession of distinguished personages, messengers and messengers began to arrive before dawn and continued through the day.

While an unending procession of generals, ambassadors, ministers of state and distinguished figures and several thousand humble citizens came to the Foch home, the French Chamber of Deputies voted to give the marshal a national funeral.

NOTABLES PRESENT
Watching the arrival and departure of those who came to bid the marshal farewell in the darkened room where he died was to turn the pages of history as the world as made it since 1914.

The Belgian ambassador, whose king is on the way to pay tribute, was followed by France's "father of victory" the former Premier Clemenceau and a few minutes later came Marshal Joffre.

Then came Myron T. Herrick the American ambassador. Famous one-armed General Gouraud, the defender of Paris, was there too.

General John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary force and Marshal Petain, who commanded the French under Foch, walked with slow steps to the bed where the marshal lay.

Representing all of France, Gaston Doumergue, president of the republic, was one of the first callers.

A guard of honor, soldiers who marched with the dead marshal in victory and in the dark days preceding triumph, took possession of the courtyard in front of the old soldier's home. Parisians passed with heads bowed and hats off, while the nation planned its sixth national funeral, its highest honor in death for the man who did so much for it during his life.

The body was clad in the marshal's field uniform. On its breast ribbons and medals reposed, among them the star and grand cross of the Legion of Honor. This last was brought and pinned on by General H. J. E. Gouraud, shortly after death late Wednesday.

LEADS SHERIFF TO BODY OF MAN—ADmits SLAYING

Portage.—(AP)—Ray Chreislaw, formerly involved in a game law violation case, Thursday led Sheriff Alfred Gilbert to the body of Ed Knutson, aged 45, of Poyntette, and admitted to the county law enforcement officer that he had shot and killed Knutson. The killing took place before dawn Thursday, the sheriff was told.

Chreislaw was held in the Columbus jail here pending a coroner's inquest. The coroner went to the scene of the shooting to examine the body Thursday afternoon.

Chreislaw, one of two brothers who figured in an illegal deer hunting case here several years ago, refused to give any details as to how the shooting occurred, merely reiterating the phrase:

"I shot him."

Royal Pair Weds Today

Illuminated iceobelisks decorated the main thoroughfare of Oslo, Norway, as Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, wed Princess Martha of Sweden on Thursday. That was only one of the features to surround the national festivity with grandeur. The whole country participated in the collection of gifts for the royal couple, and the wedding ceremony even was broadcast.

Simple Ceremony Marks Norway's Royal Wedding

Oslo, Norway.—(AP)—Olaf, crown prince of Norway, and the Princess Martha, niece of King Gustav, of Sweden, were married Thursday in the presence of royal kindred amid the acclaim and rejoicing of the Norwegian people.

The wedding took place in the ancient Church of Our Saviour, according to the simple Lutheran ritual which was in keeping with the plainness of the edifice.

The spectacle was made impressive by the distinguished company of guests and the patriotic music of the organ and special choruses.

Princess Martha was given away by her father, Prince Carl, brother of the Swedish king.

Prince Olaf was attended by his English cousin, the Duke of York. The service solemnizing the union was conducted by the Bishop of Oslo, Johan Lund.

Leaving the church after the ceremony the bride and groom and 200 guests were entertained at luncheon by King Haakon and Queen Maud at the royal palace. Departure of the prince and his comely partner for a honeymoon on the continent was not to take place until Thursday night.

The simple benches of the 17th century church were occupied at 11:30 in the forenoon by high dignitaries of the Scandinavian states, the diplomatic corps, army and navy officers, and friends—all except the royal guests. Young officers in full parade uniform were the ushers.

Prince Olaf and the Duke of York entered the church just prior to the ceremony, taking their place to the left of the altar.

Then came the royal guests at intervals of two minutes. These included King Haakon and Queen Maud, Princess Ingeborg of Sweden, who is the bride's mother, Crown Prince Axel of Denmark, Prince Henry of Holland, and other members of the Scandinavian royal family.

Princess Martha entered at high noon escorted by her father, Prince Carl, and followed by eight bridesmaids, four of them Swedish and four Norwegian. The bride's party took the place at the right of the altar, opposite the bridegroom.

As Princess Martha walked to the altar on her father's arm the choir sang the Swedish song "Sweden."

This was a last greeting to the princess from her fatherland and before she changed her nationality.

Then the mixed choir of 150 voices made the echoes of the old church tremble with Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus." As the echoes of this mighty song died the bishop took his place before the altar and pronounced the words which made Olaf and Martha man and wife.

As the couple turned to begin the procession to the entrance of the church, the organ began sending out the pealing tones of the Homage March, "The Crusader King Sigurd of Norway."

Holloway In New Office In Oklahoma

Lieutenant Governor Takes Post Made Vacant by Ousting of Johnston

Oklahoma City, Okla.—(AP)—H. J. Holloway was Oklahoma's fourth governor in six years Thursday following the removal from that office of Henry S. Johnston by a senate court in a charge of incompetency.

Holloway, a lieutenant governor under Johnston, had been acting chief executive since the latter was suspended pending trial.

Johnston was the second successive elected governor of the state to be removed from office. J. C. Walton, his predecessor, was ousted in 1923. Governor Holloway is the fourth to hold office since then, although the constitution provides a four year term.

Expressing confidence, even on the eve of the verdict, that his administration would be vindicated, Johnston had not considered the alternative of conviction chosen by the senate court in a vote of 35 to 9 on the charge of general incompetency. On all other articles of impeachment preferred by the house of representatives he was acquitted.

"I have lost the office of governor, I have retained my honor and integrity," said Johnston's only statement after the verdict.

ENDS LONG STRUGGLE
Johnston's removal came as a dramatic climax to more than two years of political turbulence. In December, 1927, when hostile legislators attempted to meet on their own call to vote impeachment articles against him, he succeeded in dispersing them by court action.

Mrs. J. O. Hammonds, Johnston's confidential secretary, drew much of the fire of the governor's political enemies. They charged she dominated the governor's office and dictated much of the state's official business.

The governor, declaring that attacks on her were inspired by "disappointed political partisans," refused to discharge her after he was suspended, and shortly before his trial opened Johnston accepted Mrs. Hammonds' resignation.

On the witness stand, he told the court he previously had declined to discharge his secretary because rumors, circulated by political enemies, had inferred his relations with her were improper. This charge included in the purported articles of impeachment voted by the attempted session in 1927, was not renewed, and, for this reason, Johnston said he felt justified in accepting the woman's resignation.

PAYS FOR LOAD OF ALCOHOL BUT GETS GOOD SPRING WATER

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Albert Domnitz believes $1,775 to be an awfully high price to pay for a load of spring water—especially so when he ordered alcohol.

He complained of this to police Thursday. Joseph C. Klezmer, 31, a fellow businessman was paid that amount three days ago, advanced money for a load of alcohol, said Domnitz.

It looked like a successful business venture, Domnitz declared, when the alcohol, in cans and packed in cartons, was safely delivered.

Domnitz decided to learn just what quality of alcohol he had purchased so he opened one of the cans. It tasted like a good grade of spring water. Hurriedly he opened other cans and learned that all of their contents had been pumped from the same well.

Domnitz rushed to the police station and told his story. Klezmer, found at a downtown hotel, denied receiving the $1,775. He was present when the deal for the alcohol was made, he said, but had no part in it. Both men are held by police pending further investigation.

COMES BACK RICH BUT ADMITS KILLING MAN
Chicago.—(AP)—John MacKenzie has come back, his tattered telescope bulging with bonds and mortgages worth $150,000, and with a confession that he killed a man last October.

MacKenzie said his conscience had troubled him ever since Oct. 21 when, as he phrased it, he was "provoked" to the point of shooting Arthur Glanke after long years of harassing, legal and physical, over a "spite wall."

YOUTH DIES IN WRECKAGE OF SPEEDING CAR

Automobile Somersaults Through Air to End Wild Trip from Black Creek

When he lost control of the small roadster he was driving at 65 miles an hour on Highway 47 about three miles south of Black Creek, John Humm, 26, 402 S. State st., was instantly killed about 5:30 Wednesday afternoon. The machine turned three complete somersaults and landed on its side in the driveway of the J. Witt farm.

Humm's neck was broken and his skull fractured. A physician who was called from Black Creek said death had been instantaneous.

George Gertz, 16, Shawano, who stays at 634 W. Seventh st., was in the car with Humm but suffered only a slight scratch on his hip. When Gertz regained consciousness after the crash he was pinned beneath the car but extricated himself by kicking away the windshield. Humm's body had been thrown out of the car and his head was pinned beneath the right rear wheel.

The two men had left Appleton about 3:30 to go to Black Creek to view reported flood conditions.

BREAKNECK SPEED
Investigation by Stanley A. Stahl, district attorney, revealed Humm had speeded from 50 to 68 miles an hour all the way to Black Creek despite the protests of Gertz.

Once Gertz shut off the gas in an effort to slow Humm drive slower, Humm had purchased the car only last Saturday, Mr. Stahl said, and he had never driven a car before that.

On the way back Humm again started to speed, Gertz said, despite the remonstrances of the younger boy. It was while he was remonstrating that the accident occurred. Gertz said the car struck a stretch of pavement heaved by the frost and turned over at least three times. Gertz escaped injury by slumping down to the floor boards where he crouched under the dashboard.

The rear end of the car was demolished as it struck the ground after rising through the air in a somersault.

WORKED IN APPLETON
Humm and Gertz were employed at the State factory in Appleton. Humm had come to Appleton only three years ago from Germany.

His survivors include his father, four sisters and one brother in Germany. Rudolph Kummer, a cousin at Clintonville, and Mrs. Wenzel Grosser, a cousin, at 1231 W. Winnebago st., Appleton.

The body was taken to the Burdick Undertaking parlors at Black Creek and is to be removed to the Grosser home in Appleton Friday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Joseph church. Interment will be in St. Joseph cemetery.

PILOT OF WRECKED PLANE FACES COURT

Newark, N. J.—(AP)—Captain Philip Stoltz of the police department, Thursday announced that he would bring a technical charge of manslaughter against Lou Foote, pilot of the plane which crashed in the Newark meadows, killing 11. He obtained a warrant for his arrest. Foote was the only survivor of the accident.

Legislature Is Working For Early Adjournment
Madison.—(AP)—Prospects of an early adjournment of the legislature were materially enhanced Thursday with the revelation of the fact that the joint committee probably will have ready for submission to the two houses by April 1 the major appropriation bills, giving funds to the state university, teachers colleges and charitable and penal institutions.

Ed F. Hilker, assemblyman from Racine, revealed the system by which the committee hopes to advance the introduction of the measures by more than two months over the last session. Then they came in June. The speed of the legislative work is recognized to depend largely on the finance committee's work and its speed depends largely in drafting the major finance bills.

The committee substituted the plan of sending sub-committees to visit the various state institutions and normal schools this year for the old visiting system, abolished by the last legislature.

MANY ESCAPE, OTHERS MAY GAIN SURFACE

Between 30 and 40 Miners Still Trapped in Depths of Earth

RESCUE WORK STARTED
Grave Doubts Expressed for Safety of Workers Near Entry During Blast

BULLETIN

Parnassus, Pa.—(AP)—Entombed by an explosion, between thirty and fifty miners were unaccounted for Thursday in the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal company. More than two hundred others were underground when the blast occurred, but as hours passed, they found their way to the surface through an entry five miles from the main tippie.

Parnassus, Pa.—(AP)—Raymond Tomblin, one of the miners who escaped from the explosion that swept the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal company Thursday, expressed the belief that many of his fellows had died within the pit.

Tomblin was one of a party of 21 men who came out of the Valley Camp entry. He said that with the explosion, there came a rush of air in that section of the mine. A haze filled the chambers soon after and he detected gas he said.

Confusion among the miners followed the blast. Some ran back into the mine, Tomblin said. These, he feared, did not escape. Approximately 50 men were working near Tomblin.

As he wandered about he came upon the body of his "buddy" but saw no others. While he was getting out, Tomblin said, ice cold water rushed through the mine and rose almost to his chin.

OVER 300 IN MINE
More than three hundred miners were in the workings when the explosion occurred. Of these, the greater number were believed to have been at work near the main heading, where rescue workers feared that they were near the center of the explosion.

Those who escaped came from an entry about five miles from that known as the Kinloch entry, the center of the operations.

The explosion occurred shortly after 7 o'clock in the morning. The day shift of workmen had entered the mine not long before. Some said there were two later ones immediately following the other.

FLAME SHOOTS INTO AIR
A sheet of flame shot three hundred feet in the air, witnesses said, at the main tippie at Kinloch. Six men at work near the tippie were injured, but were not in a serious condition.

As the hours passed, more miners arrived at the Kinloch entry after climbing to the surface at the distant mouth known as the Valley Camp entry. At 11 o'clock company officials said that between 140 and 150 men were known to have escaped.

In trucks and on foot, small cavalcades of the fortunate came into the little mining village of Kinloch where loved ones waited then in anxiety. Women and children whose husbands, father and brothers yet were unaccounted for, questioned anxiously those who came from the Valley Camp entry.

Despite the more cheering aspects of the explosion as the miners trickled into the town, grave doubts were expressed for those near the Kinloch entry. So fearful was the blast, miners long familiar with explosions said there could be no possibility that those near the main heading had escaped.

RESCUE WORK RUSHED
Amulances were rushed to the scene and fire trucks from New Kensington were on hand soon after the explosion. The United States Bureau of Mines dispatched rescue men from Pittsburgh and a mine rescue car was on its way from Russellton.

The Kinloch mine is owned by the James A. Paisley interests, of Cleveland.

O. F. Taylor, mine superintendent, said that many of the miners might find their way to an exit five miles from the main heading. This, he believed, was their lone hope for escape.

Physicians, nurses and rescue men were gathered about the mine. The clouds of black smoke and flames, which from the pit stayed the rescue crews from entering the workings. Four miners in workings connected by a single entry with the Kinloch mine were shaken by the explosion in the adjoining pit and rushed to the surface. They were several miles from the main heading and could give no information as to the fate of the Kinloch men.

ENTER MINE
After being held back by flames and smoke, rescue crews entered the Kinloch entry shortly after 11 o'clock. Others were at the Valley Camp entry to go down into the pit from that section. Two crews, one from the Union Collieries company, and another from the Inland Coal company, went down the Kinloch opening. Rescue workers said there was grave danger from gas and atterdamp.

ATTEMPT TO BLOCK INSTALLATION OF SIGNALS REPULSED

Wig-wag Warnings on Railroad Crossings Approved by Council

Desperate attempt by a group of five aldermen to prevent passage of a streets and bridges committee report recommending the installation of manual-control wig-wag signals at the Appleton, Ononda and Bates-st crossings with the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks, failed at the common council meeting Wednesday night and the measure was approved by a vote of six to five.

Alderman Steinhaus said: "If the council passes this proposal it is not acting in the best interests of the people. I talk from experience when I say that to remove the gates now controlled by a switchman will increase the danger of the fatal accidents on these crossings."

Alderman Richard observed that when there is considerable switching being done on the yards the automatic alarms are almost constantly ringing and that autoists often disregard the signal when they see a switch engine some distance up the track and cross the tracks when the alarm is operating. He pointed out that with gates there the autoists could not pass until they were up.

The streets and bridges committee report was made in conjunction with a plan inaugurated several months ago when safety gates and crossing watchmen were taken from several other crossings in the city and automatic signals installed.

SIGNALS GIVEN TRIAL
At the time the council gave the railroad company permission to change the signal system, it was agreed that if, after 90 days trial, the new system proved successful, similar signals were to be installed on the crossings under dispute.

In an effort to provide better regulation of the alarm systems now installed a representative of the railroad company promised the council it would install a signal tower at the intersection of Cherry-st and College-ave so that the watchman would be better able to see the tracks both ways.

Proponents of the wig-wag system pointed out that the railroad company was doing its best to protect the crossings and that if it proposed to put in wig-wag alarms instead of safety gates, that probably was because they had been proven more effective.

By the adoption of a "protection resolution" the city treasurer was ordered to withhold $32,313.21 of the city's share of county taxes which was to have been paid this week. This amount the city claims is due it as a result of the bank stock tax settlement affected with local banks. Adjustment of the matter now is being considered by joint committees of the county board and the council and the "protection" resolution merely assures the city treasurer that the council will assume all responsibility for withholding the funds.

By a unanimous vote the council adopted a report of the fire and water committee, which provides for the purchase of rubber coats, helmets and boots for the fire department.

Previously the firemen had had to purchase this equipment themselves. Alderman Vogt and Diderich pointed out that this equipment was used solely for fighting fires and that therefore the city ought to pay the

WOODWORKING GROUP MEETINGS POSTPONED

Additional meetings of the wood-working and construction men's sections of the Appleton Safety school scheduled for next week at the Appleton vocational school, have been postponed until the following week, because of the spring vacation at the school, according to Herb Heilig, director. Discussion on several problems are to be completed at the sessions.

FLOWER SOCIETY MEETS TONIGHT

H. J. Rahmlow, Horticulturist, Will Answer Gardening Questions

The ground is softening, seed catalogues are coming through the mail and the snow is beginning to melt from the shrubbery. Spring? Yes, but more specifically, gardening time.

The old urge to play around with bulbs and vines, lettuce and carrots is springing into life, and whether gardening is a vocation or a hobby, there are a dozen pointers the prospective planter would like to get before he buys his seed and plants his garden.

Questions such as these will be answered tonight at the City Hall, when H. J. Rahmlow, secretary of the Wisconsin Horticultural society, speaks before the first general meeting of the newly organized Appleton Flower and Garden society.

Mr. Rahmlow has a comprehensive knowledge of all matters relative to gardening, and his connection with the Wisconsin Horticultural society places him in a position of authority on problems of horticulture. It is expected that Mr. Rahmlow's reputation will draw people from all over the county.

DELPHIAN CLUB QUINT DOWNS OSHKOSH, 18-17

Twenty members of the Oshkosh Junior chamber of commerce were entertained at a dinner at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening by the Delphians club of the association. Talks were presented by members of the chamber and of the local club. A basketball game between Oshkosh group and the local Y. M. C. A. followed the dinner meeting. The local aggregation won, 18 to 17.

VACATION AT INDUSTRY SCHOOL STARTS FRIDAY

The Appleton vocational school will close for spring vacation at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. Many teachers have made arrangements to leave on afternoon trains for their homes in various parts of the state. Some classes are to be conducted in the evening school next week. Several of the courses were not completed during the last period of evening classes, and an extension of two more meetings was granted.

A request from Police Chief George T. Prim asking the council to furnish Sam Brown belts and regulation revolvers for the police department was referred to the police and license committee. The chief pointed out that in all other cities the members of the department have regulation equipment. He said that he planned to have his officers begin target practice as soon as they were equipped with the standard guns.

START ENERGETIC CAMPAIGN TO PUT ROADS IN SHAPE

Chairman of Highway Committee Takes Hold of Repair Work

Every unpaved road on the county trunk highway system will be in a passable condition by the end of the week, according to an announcement by Supervisor Frank Appleton, Ononda, chairman of the county highway committee, who has temporarily assumed the duties of county highway commissioner.

Mr. Appleton took over the work on orders from the highway committee which recently decided it would take no steps to fill the office vacated by the death of A. G. Brusewitz, until after the county board meeting in April.

While the highway department has been operating without a head since Mr. Brusewitz was taken ill early in February the work has been going on with the department heads acting as supervisors.

On assuming his duties Wednesday Mr. Appleton spent a half day making an investigation of the situation, and Thursday morning he started to act.

PATROLMEN OUT

His first official act was to order out as many of the road patrolmen as could be reached by telephone. The rest of the patrolmen will start work as soon as they can be notified.

They were ordered to begin to grade the gravelled roads, remove ruts, fill bad spots, repair shoulders and with as much haste as possible put the roads in the same shape they were in last fall.

There are more than 40 patrolmen and all but one or two started work Thursday morning.

In putting the patrolmen to work without calling them together for instructions Mr. Appleton made a departure from the custom that has been followed in the highway department the past few years. Usually the men were called in and given instructions before they started work.

Mr. Appleton pointed out that the roads were in bad condition now and that he thought most of the patrolmen had held their jobs long enough to know what to do without going through a course of instruction. If such a course is needed it will be given later when the roads are in such shape that they can be left without attention, Mr. Appleton said.

In addition to the patrolmen a crew of nine men with trucks are hauling crushed stone to sections of roads which have washed out. They also are helping the patrolmen repair culverts and small bridge wash-outs.

"There is no question but some roads are in very bad shape now with the frost out of the ground I promise that by the end of the week there will not be a gravel road in the county that cannot be traveled on with safety," Mr. Appleton said.

Recognizing that paved roads are apt to be damaged by frost leaving the ground Mr. Appleton ordered two of the highway workers to put up signs restricting the sizes of loads allowed on the highways. On all gravel roads the paved roads nine feet wide, loads are restricted to 7,000 pounds, while on pavement more than nine feet wide the loads are restricted to 12,000 pounds.

Warning signs were being posted Thursday on all roads in the county. Mr. Appleton was informed that some of the county trucks had been hauling loads in excess of the maximum limit and he issued orders that no county trucks were to violate the regulations but that drivers would be held responsible the same as other truck drivers.

To put teeth in this maximum-load restriction Mr. Appleton proposes to call a meeting of the highway committee next week at which he will take up the matter of purchasing a scale to be used in checking loads.

"If we have a law lets enforce it," he said.

Eight men were set to work Thursday repairing county machinery at the garage. As fast as the equipment is placed in good shape for use it is to be sent out to fulfill its share of the work of restoring Outagamie-co highways to good condition for summer.

On Friday Mr. Appleton proposes to go to Black Creek where it has been reported that drainage water is flowing beneath a subway constructed on Highway 54. The drainage system planned for the road has proven ineffective and Mr. Appleton intends to take immediate steps to remedy the situation.

As soon as the roads are in a fair shape for travel Mr. Appleton has other plans for his workers. In the latter part of next week he intends to set a crew at work taking down snow fence on important roads. This work will take about a week.

DOCTOR SHOWS QUICK WAY TO END COLDS

Many Here Find Hospital Method Is Pleasant for Use at Home — Ends Cold in Few Hours

Urging the danger of neglecting a cold during pneumonia weather, hospital physicians are recommending for home use a remedy that brings quick, sure relief, even in extreme cases. And numbers of Appleton people find that it is not only inexpensive, but pleasant to take and ideal to end a head cold, cough or chest cold.

J. H. Driscoll, for example, had neglected a head cold until congestion spread down into his chest, bringing on a fever of 101. Fearing pneumonia then, he called his doctor, who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients recognized as the most effective for severe colds.

With the first pleasant swallow he felt its comforting, healing warmth from his nose passages deep down into his chest. In a few hours the "feverish, grippy" feeling began to disappear; and in another day or so, the doctor reports, he was completely rid of the cold.

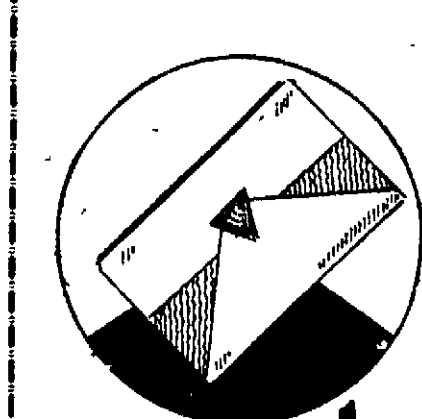

Note: See other cases reported daily—also certified by the attending physician.

Just a spoonful of Cherry Pectoral today and you will feel like a different person tomorrow. Endorsed by Schlicht Bros., and all druggists.

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

by CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

Harry Manning, 32 year old chief officer of the America, had one of the outstanding roles in the rescue of the Florida. He commanded the lifeboat which took the crew off the disabled ship. Fried again pays tribute to the courage and coolness of his young officer and says if any recognition is given the men of the America it should go to the members of the lifeboat's voluntary crew.

BY CAPT. GEORGE FRIED
(Copyright, 1929, Associated Press)

CHAPTER XXI
Chief Officer Harry Manning is 32 years old. He is a graduate of the New York State Nautical School. On January 22, when he commanded the lifeboat from the America and rescued the 32 members of the Italian freight Florida, he demonstrated his courage and ability. American crews have made rescues before but the one executed by him and his shipmates was accomplished so efficiently and expeditiously that it will always stand as the work of seasoned experts and an example to the seafarer of every nationality. The brotherhood of the sea knows no race, creed or color. When an SOS is flashed the hearts of the thousands aboard ships quicken and every one within a reasonable distance is ready to sacrifice his life if necessary. When I decided to go to the aid of the Florida every man aboard the America was on tip-toe. The human machines of the vessel functioned quietly and smoothly. Every man wanted a chance to go out in the first lifeboat but the selection was left entirely to Mr. Manning.

The chief officer of a vessel has the privilege and I might say, it is really his duty if he is physically able, to command the rescuing boat. Mr. Manning was ready. I knew and was deserving of the chance. He is daring but not foolhardy. In a crisis I felt he could control himself and be as calm as the seas were wild. So he left the bridge and went to the forecastle to choose his crew from the volunteers. The man who decided to wage everything against tremendous odds includes W. K. Clark, junior engineer. Aloy's Wilson, boatswain's mate; Salvatore Bracco, storekeeper, who acted as the interpreter; John Talts, sailmaker; Victor Wallick, master at arms; Walter Trettin, quartermaster; and John Harrobin and Fonco Kellam, able seamen.

As we proceeded toward the Florida, Mr. Manning and I discussed briefly the plan of rescue but our plans were necessarily dependent upon the situations as they arose. The most important thing was to see that sufficient provisions and water were in the boat, a compass, several lengths of rope, flares, flashlights, a hand lantern and buckets for bailing. Every man wore a life belt. But it is always wise to re-check and make certain that everything is in satisfactory condition. Lifeboat Number One was decided upon as it was nearest the bow from which the crew would have to pull on their start across the waters for the Florida.

Our plans for the boat getting away worked perfectly. However, it had not progressed very far before the unexpected happened. White caps suddenly began to appear on the heavy swells. Then came snow squall. The wind was increasing in force. An hour after the boat had left the side of the America the wind was blowing at hurricane velocity and a blinding rain was pelting the rescuers.

The visibility was poor as the boat started from the Florida. A flashlight was blinking. Mr. Manning evidently was trying to get some message to me but we could not make it out, due to the rise and fall of the boat. For a moment I thought something was wrong. The America was being maneuvered. I was trying to watch every detail and every man in sight to make sure he was carrying out his orders.

The America was giving but slight protection to our little boat, but with little there was it helped. I could see them struggle. The oars dipped in unison but the waves often pushed them back further than any headway they had made.

On our ship everyone was silent. I have been asked how I felt at that time. It would be hard for me to describe my emotions. I was not nervous. Nor was I excited. I do know that when the ordeal was over and my men were safely aboard, I was almost on the point of collapse from the mental strain. It was then the full significance of the deeds of these men came to my mind. It was then that I felt a tingle of pride for having a crew that could overcome such great obstacles—rescuing not only 32 men but themselves as well in a sea from which few crews would ever have emerged triumphant. The water was so rough that even the thought of raising the lifeboat could not be entertained.

I again wish to express publicly my thanks and appreciation to my officers and men for their assistance. Their courage and ability should give our people something to think about and make them proud of the men in the American Merchant Marine. They are not looking for rewards, but if any recognition is given to the men of the America it should go to the lifeboat crew in charge of one of the most gallant young officers with whom I have ever been associated—Harry Manning.

RAILBUS LINE FOR SCOTLAND
Plans for a combination of railroads and bus lines to cover all of Scotland are reported to be under way. As a result there has been a boom in motor stocks on the leading exchanges. The proposals indicate that the more important bus lines will be run as a part of the railway service instead of independently as at present. If the reported plan goes through, passengers may buy tickets for any point covered and make part of trips on railways and the rest on buses. If the present overtures to the motor lines fail, the railways say they will adopt the plan by installing buses of their own.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR COMMENCEMENT ARE ALMOST COMPLETED

Rev. E. C. Kollath Will Deliver Baccalaureate Address

Neenah — All arrangements for commencement week at the high school have been completed with exception of selection of the class flower and motto, according to Howard Sucker, class president. A class meeting was held Wednesday evening at which it was decided to have the Rev. E. C. Kollath, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran church, give the annual baccalaureate service at the high school on Friday, March 22. The class play will be given on the evening of May 17 at the Neenah theatre. The play has not yet been selected. Class day exercises will be presented on the evenings of June 10 and 11 and the graduating exercises on the evening of June 12 at Neenah theatre. Dr. Evans of Ripon college will be the speaker.

The class, which numbers 51 pupils of which 49 are girls, has selected purple and white as the class colors. Upon entering the senior class, there were 36 boys and 54 girls but during the last year some dropped out on account of sickness and failure to pass the required examinations.

The class roll includes: Jack Eabblitt, George Birmingham, Adelbert Blank, Loyd Boelter, Carl Breaker, Julius Davis, Karl Gartner, Raymond Galmier, Robert Gillispie, Paul Grogan, John Hewitt, Mitchell Johnson, Hans Jorgensen, Kenneth Kitchen, Theodore Klinker, Karl Kollath, N. JORGENSEN TO SELECT TOURNAMENT TEAM SOON

Neenah — Following the game Thursday night at Appleton between the high school team of that city and the Neenah conference and district winners, Coach Ole Jorgensen will select his team to go to Madison April 3 to take part in the state tournament. It is possible there will be some changes made in the lineup to bolster weak spots which showed up during the tournament last week at Menasha, especially during the game in which Neenah defeated Kaukauna, 16 to 7.

YOUTH IS CHARGED WITH BURGLARIES

Henry Brooks, Ladysmith, Bound Over for Trial on March 26

Neenah — Henry Brooks, 20, a resident of Ladysmith who has been here the last few months, was arrested Wednesday night charged with several burglaries committed here within the last few weeks. Taken to jail, he signed confession that he had entered the Schmitz shoe store on W. Wisconsin-ave where he had taken shoes and stockings; the Durham Lumber company office on two different occasions where he had taken small change and stamps; the Auto Electric company place and Menasha Bowling alleys where he had taken articles amounting to several dollars. He also admitted he was about to enter the Island Hotel when the proprietor appeared and he was scared away. Fingerprints which the police department had led to the young man's boarding house in Menasha.

Appearing in Justice Jonsen's court Thursday morning, he waived preliminary examination and was bound over to appear at 10 o'clock on the morning of March 26 in municipal court. He was placed under $500 bonds which he was unable to furnish and was committed to Winnebago-co. jail to await his hearing.

MAY REVIVE MOVE TO GET REFERENDUM ON COURTHOUSE SITE

Proposal Depends Upon Whether Purchase Can Be Made for $80,000

Neenah — The move to hold a referendum on the proposed new courthouse site in Oshkosh is not yet dead, according to Supervisor J. E. Schmeider of Neenah, who was with the supervisors who voted not to lay on the table the resolution providing to bring the matter to the vote of the people at the last session of the Winnebago-co. board. Mr. Schmeider states that if the property cannot be purchased for $80,000 before the next board session, the proposed referendum will again be brought up for discussion. The resolution was laid on the table by a vote of 22 to 17.

Mr. Schmeider, at the opening of the March session of the board, moved to reconsider the action taken by the board relative to adopting the report of a special committee appointed to secure a site for a new courthouse. The matter was reconsidered and the report of the committee was again adopted. Following the action the resolution to place the project to the vote of the people was introduced and tabled.

REACH DECISION ON ABANDONED TRACKS

Company Agrees to Tear Up Rails on Wisconsin-ave

Neenah — The board of public works met Wednesday evening with Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., officials to arrange for removal or covering up of the abandoned tracks owned by that company in city streets of Neenah. It was decided to have the tracks on N. Commercial-st covered with a tar mixture which will prevent the necessity of tearing up street on Wisconsin-ave from Commercial-st to Walnut-st the rails will be removed and replaced by brick pavement.

Dr. Greenwood asked permission to remove a wooden building from the rear of his property on N. Commercial-st to a lot on Wisconsin-ave in order to get it from the fire limits, but this request was refused and the building ordered torn down.

The tops on the ornamental light poles formerly used for trolley supports were ordered removed as they will be no longer needed.

The board will meet Friday afternoon to look over bids for road oil and waterworks pipe in order to recommend the lowest bid to the city council.

The city hall offices will be closed Friday afternoon during the funeral of ex-Mayor J. H. Dennham. The council will attend the services at the Presbyterian church in a body.

SPORTSMAN COMMITTEE MEETS THIS EVENING

Neenah — Twin City Sportsman club executive committee will meet Thursday evening at the city hall to make arrangements for the meeting Friday evening. Motion pictures of fishing, activities and some hunting scenes will be shown and a talk given by a well known hunter.

SOCIAL ITEMS AT MENASHA

Menasha — The Catholic Women's Benevolent society will hold a meeting Thursday evening at Hotel Monary school building. New officers will be elected for the coming year.

The Knights of Columbus meeting Thursday evening will be followed by a pep meeting for members of the bowling league who will leave Saturday for the state tournament at Port Washington. Approximately 70 members will participate in the tournament Saturday and Sunday.

The Rotary club held its weekly luncheon Wednesday noon at Hotel Monary. Owing to a misunderstanding the members were without a speaker. The time was used advantageously, however, by consideration of club matters.

At the opening meeting of the Economics club Friday, March 22, at the public library building the members will decide on the program for the coming year. The program of this year has been miscellaneous. The music department will have charge of the meeting with Mrs. G. W. Collipe as chairman.

Program: Piano duet, Mrs. E. H. Schultz, Mrs. Ray Fleweger; Paper, Music from the Out of Doors, Mrs. G. W. Collipe; vocal numbers, The Morning Wind, The Winter Lullaby, Miss Edna Robertson; Club Chorus, Night Spring; vocal numbers, The Swallows, The Four Leaf Clover, Miss Treutel; solo, The Answer, Mrs. Ray Peters; duet, Go Pretty Rose, Mrs. Boehm; Mrs. Mae Johnson; solo, Sing, Sing, Birds on the Wing, Mrs. Dexter; piano numbers, Mrs. Matheson.

The hostesses will be Mrs. Crockett, Mrs. McGillan, Mrs. Sonnenberg. Guests invited.

Twin City Commandery No. 33, Knights Templar, entertained 60 members and guests Tuesday evening at Masonic hall. Carl Faas of Milwaukee, grand warder of the Knights Templar in Wisconsin, was guest of honor and inspecting officer. Visiting members were present from Appleton and Oshkosh.

Twin City Chapter of the Order of DeMolays initiated a class of candidates Wednesday evening. The ceremony occupied the greater part of the evening.

Mrs. Gus Herman entertained the Ladies Aid society of the Methodist church Wednesday evening at her home, 230 W. Water-st.

PUPILS' SAVINGS IS MORE THAN $20,000

Menasha — Pupils of the public and parochial schools have gone over the $20,000 mark in their savings account. The total amount now on deposit is $20,333.20. The amount deposited this week was $227.29 and the number of depositors was 1,365. The amounts deposited by the different schools were: Butte des Morts, $48.48; Nicolet, $22.40; Jefferson, $21.82; St. Mary, $54.37; St. Patrick, $12.58; Junior high, $18.31; Menasha high, $28.32; St. Mary high, $15.54; bank, $3.27.

RELEASE YOUTHS WHO RANG APARTMENT BELLS

Menasha — For some time tenants of the apartments of the Brin theatre have been annoyed by persons ringing them up by pressing the electric buttons in the entrance to the apartments on the first floor. Officers caught two young men from Appleton, Louis Ross and Earl Hermon, in the act Tuesday night and upon questioning them at the police station let them go on condition they would discontinue making any further trouble in the future. They claimed they were not aware they were disturbing anyone and were waiting for a bus at the time.

Russia plans to double its present production of lumber.

Many new electric lighting plants are planned for South China.

MENASHA PERSONALS

Menasha — Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Tuchscherer, who have been visiting relatives and friends in California for several weeks, started on their return trip Wednesday and are expected to reach home the latter part of the week.

The Rev. M. M. Corry of Grafton, N. D., is visiting his brother, Dr. F. M. Corry.

Mrs. Harry Sheerin is seriously ill, at her home on Kaukauna-st.

CITY CLERK TO OPEN OFFICE ON 2 NIGHTS

Menasha — City Clerk John Jedwabny Jr., announces that he will be at his office from 7 to 9 o'clock Thursday evening, March 21, and Monday evening, March 25 to register those who have not had an opportunity to call during the day time. Those who voted by affidavit at the last election and who are not yet registered must register in order to vote and those who have registered once before are not required to register again.

Menasha — The Jack Rabbit interstate busses of Chicago which commenced operating to Menominee, Mich., Monday by way of Menasha, are having trouble in getting through Menasha and Neenah and are temporarily cutting out both cities and going to Appleton by way of the lower lake. This is made necessary until they can get a permit to cross the government canal on the railroad bridge from the companies that own it. They are unable to cross Mill-st bridge in Menasha on account of their excessive weight.

Many new electric lighting plants are planned for South China.

MAN IS FINED $5 FOR DISORDERLY CHARGE

Menasha — Members of the police department were called to the home of Joseph Brycki Tuesday night to quell a family disturbance. The head of the family was taken to the police station and was arraigned in court on a disorderly charge. He was fined $5 and costs.

LENTEN SERVICE

Menasha — Midweek lenten service will be held at the Congregational church at 7:30 Thursday evening. Subject, What the Bible Teaches About the Atonement.

FINDS WATCH LOST IN WAR

Offered a silver watch by a watch repairer, who told him it had been left for repair more than two years ago, an English ex-Serviceman bought it. Inspecting it later he found an inscription inside the case which showed that the timepiece was the one he had lost in France in 1917.

How To Play Bridge

BY MILTON C. WERT

MR. WORK'S POINTERS ON ACCUTION BRIDGE

Continuing the series of "Misplayed Hand I Have Met," today's follows:

South opened the bidding with one Heart—a better bid than the strong-eq Diamond because it shows a Major suit and the combined hands may produce game at Hearts and not at Diamonds. West passed. North bid No Trump which held the contract.

East started by leading the Deuce of Spades, and Declarer held up his Ace until the third round of that suit. He then tried to run his Clubs, expecting to make six Clubs, one Spade, two Diamonds and at least the Ace of Hearts; but East held the guarded Club Jack and Declarer was able to make only three Club tricks and score only one-odd because he had no entry in his own hand for his remaining Clubs.

Should he have made any more tricks?

THE CORRECT PLAY

After winning the third trick with his Ace of Spades, twelve cards of that suit having been played, the Declarer knew that there was only

SORE THROAT
Relief guaranteed with one swallow of one Spade left for the adversaries to make. They already had taken two Spade tricks, and he could afford to let them win the remaining Spade and one other trick.
THOXINE

In his two hands Declarer had a total of eight Clubs, leaving five for the adversaries which probably were divided 3-2, but might be divided 4-1. So North should have led a small Club to trick 4. The worst that could happen would be that this trick would be won by East with the Jack and that he then would cash his thirteenth Spade. But that would give the adversaries only four tricks. And the Declarer would make the remainder and go game.

Of course if the adverse Clubs were divided 3-2, the lead of the small Club on the first round would be throwing away a trick immaterial; and if they were divided 4-1, Declarer's case was hopeless from the beginning.

THE BEER REFERENDUM

The referendum to be submitted to the voters in April for repeal of the Severson act and on the question whether they wish to legalize 2.75 per cent beer is a sham political device. It can serve no useful purpose for the wets, whom it is designed to please, and if it should go against them it would be decidedly harmful. It does not propose to do anything in the true interest of modification of prohibition or repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It is a dishonest attempt in reference to beer to authorize something it has no power to authorize and which amounts not only to nullification of the federal constitution, but invitation to the people of this state to wantonly violate it.

There is no way by which 2.75 beer in Wisconsin can be legalized. All that approval of a proposal of the kind can do is to encourage brewers to operate clandestinely and to prosper the trade of bootlegging. If what the people are trying to get rid of is conspiracy against the constitution, the bootlegging oligarchy and other vicious phases of prohibition, the only chance is through repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment and that is what they should strive to obtain.

Because of this fact I believe the Severson law should not be repealed and certainly the beer referendum should be defeated. The enforcement act should be retained for the simple reason that it represents a bond of good faith between Wisconsin and the government of the United States. It is the duty of each state to uphold the constitution and it is not preserving its integrity if it fails or refuses to do so. This is particularly so if it willfully refuses. Not only is there this great moral question involved, but there is also the practical side to be considered.

If the Severson law is repealed and illegal beer ostensibly legalized all restraints upon the liquor traffic will be removed as to Wisconsin except such as may be imposed from time to time by the federal government. It will give almost a full rein to the bootlegger, of whose nefarious operations and product the wets complain so much, it will give all of the roadhouses and dance halls, whose iniquities are also deplored by the wets, carte blanche. It will make all of the operations that are conspiracies against government and law safe from local or state interference, and will give us a regime of even more flagrant vice, corruption and law breaking. Instead of advancing the cause of temperance and repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment it will damage and retard it.

The issue is put into an election to please a few politicians who believe they can popularize themselves by this gesture toward the wets, which in reality is what the wets should oppose if they are at all honest in their professions and at all sincere in their purposes. This newspaper would like to see prohibition succeeded by rational temperance. It believes the adoption of the eighteenth amendment was a mistake. It is perfectly willing to see the amendment modified or repealed when a substitute that offers a sane solution of the liquor problem is worked out. Until that time it is unwilling to see the amendment repealed or modified.

At the same time, it is in favor of enforcement of the law, believing that only by this course can the real weaknesses or merits of prohibition be demonstrated in such a manner as will invite retention or modification. It believes the integrity and supremacy of the constitution and law are infinitely superior to every phase of prohibition, including so-called personal liberty. It believes it is the duty of the government at Washington to do everything in its power to uphold the constitution, and that it is equally incumbent upon the states to cooperate in this undertaking. Approval of the April referendum would not only set Wisconsin apart as refusing both legally and morally to support the constitution of the United States, but it would be a direct invitation to every citizen to go ahead and violate the law in any manner according to his inclination.

MUSCLE SHOALS AN OLD ISSUE

If you think that the question of what to do with the vast water power resources at Muscle Shoals is a problem confined to post-war years, you're sadly mistaken. It was one of the earliest problems raised in our national life.

Records of the American Philosophical Society, in Philadelphia, show that the question arose as far back as 1802. In that year, the society's minutes show the following entry:

"Donations: a plan for Mussel Shoals, Tennessee. Mr. Vaughn appointed to obtain from Sam Brown, of Lexington, some further account of it for publication."

Unfortunately, the record ends there, so there is no way of telling whether the early philosophers favored government operation or outright sale to the Henry Ford of that period.

ALCOHOLIC DEATHS

The death rate from alcoholism is worth studying. Federal census figures show that in 1920, immediately after federal prohibition became effective, it was one person for each million. The rate has grown steadily ever since, until in 1927 it was 40 per million. A statistician's chart would probably show the curve still running up.

An increase of forty-fold, or 4,000 per cent, is a good deal in seven years. Yet we have seen the situation worse. In the pre-prohibition years of legalized liquor traffic, from 1912 to 1917, the alcoholic death rate averaged 56 per million. Thus it appears that people may, and probably will, drink themselves to death under either system. Also that an aggressive drinker may obtain just as fatal results from strong drink of the "pure" old-fashioned sort as from the raw, poisonous stuff current nowadays.

It is sometimes necessary to remind an indignant drinker of this era that even the purest alcohol is a deadly poison when taken in large quantities.

THE NEWARK PLANE CRASH

The airplane crash at Newark, N. J., in which more than a dozen people were killed by the crash of a sightseeing plane, is the worst of its kind in the history of civilian heavier-than-air aviation in this country.

It is doubtful, however, if it will retard the development of commercial aviation greatly. It may check the enthusiasm of a few people, but it will soon be forgotten.

If you doubt it, consider the case of the steamboat. The early steamboats in this country were at least as dangerous to their passengers and crews as the modern airplane. Boiler explosions were tragically common; each one took a toll of lives.

Yet the steamboat was adopted in spite of the early dangers. It was needed, and the public insisted on having it. So, it may be predicted, it will be with the airplane. The tragedies will not be remembered long.

WHAT JUST SEVEN SECONDS?

How highly do you value seven seconds? Enough to risk your life to save them?

Probably you don't. Yet, in motor-ing across the country, there probably have been at least two or three times when you have hurried to cross a railroad track ahead of a train, so that you wouldn't have to wait.

What's that got to do with the value of seven seconds? Just this: seven seconds is the average length of time it takes a fast railroad train to get by a crossing.

Isn't a long period of time. Yet, in 1928, upwards of 1000 motorists were killed at grade crossings.

They prized their seven seconds so highly that they paid with their lives for them.

The more important market for German watches and clocks are Great Britain, the Netherlands, Argentina, United States, Canada, China and India.

Well, now that his years in the Senate are ended, maybe General Davis can go back to Chicago and find some peace.

A Kansas boy won a gold medal in an obnoxious contest. But he may grow up to be a useful citizen in spite of that.

The run-from-fumble has been abolished in football. The next step is to get the players to wear rubbers and carry umbrellas.

POST-TONIC

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady.

You don't have to make a better mouse trap now. Just neglect to pay your installments on time, and see the path that gets beaten to your door.

Doc—"That tooth must come out and the charge will be three dollars."
Sandy—"How much will it be to loosen it a little?"

A girl will wear skirts that hardly come to her knees, and then insist that the barber leave her hair long enough to cover her ears.

A man returned from an unsuccessful duck hunt with this advice to his son: "Always remember, my son, there is a lot of room around a duck."

The Married Cat—"Why, you haven't brains enough to cook a dinner."
The Gold Digger—"Perhaps not, but I have brains enough to get one without having to cook it."

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?
"Waiter, why is it that there is a trouser button in my soup?"
"I don't know sir. We employ only female help."

DIARY OF AN ABSENT-MINDED PROFESSOR

Tuesday—Slipped on a banana peel. Forgot to fall down.
Wednesday—Kissed the new teacher. Forgot to tell my wife.
Thursday—Forgot to write in my diary book.
Friday—Forgot to turn off the water while bathing baby. Funeral tomorrow.
Saturday—No school today. Forgot to get up.
Sunday—Went to church. Forgot to put anything in collection plate. Also shook hands with the preacher's baby and kissed his wife. Will be out in a week.—Sheboygan Press.

"Hey, Mike," yelled a workman to his buddy on the roof. "Don't come down the ladder on the north corner. I took it away!"

The old fashioned girl who made ash receivers out of cigar bands, now has a daughter who makes them out of the parlor rug.

"Charley, Charley," whispered my wife, poking me in the ribs. "Wake up, Charley; there are burglars in the pantry, and they're eating all my pies."

"Well, what do we care," said I, "so long as they don't die in the house?"

Gladys—"My ears burn—someone must be talking about me."
Clarice—"Probably—your old flames."

Local Teacher: "Why did Washington cross the Delaware?"
New Pupil: "For the same reason that the hen crossed the road, and you can't catch me on them riddles."

Doctor—"Are you sure you take your cup of hot water every morning?"
Patient—"I do, doctor, but my wife calls it coffee."

Clarice: "I don't see you out with Gladys any more, Jerry?"
Jerry: "The doctor told me to give up sweets!"

"Make it short and snappy," cried the city editor. "Boil it down."
And when they handed the new reporter the Ten Commandments to try him out, he wrote: "Don't."

When the meek inherit the earth, who's going to take care of the real estate business?

"Dad, I've decided to become an artist."
"No objection, provided you don't draw on me."

He—"Has your brother come home from college yet?"
She—"I guess so, or else the car's been stolen."

Today's Anniversary

THE CODE NAPOLEON

One of the three or four great legal codes in the world's history to bear the name of one man was promulgated in France 125 years ago today—the Code Napoleon.

Unlike the codified systems of law by which the names of Solon, Mahomet and one or two others in history are known, the Code Napoleon was the work of a corps of French legal minds and Napoleon himself really had little to do with it.

The Code was an orderly, compact statement of the laws of France. It has formed the basis of the Frenchman's civil rights ever since its promulgation, March 21, 1801. It was made necessary by the fact that after the French revolution the laws of the country were hopelessly confused. Ancient statutes of doubtful historic origin were mixed with new radical measures enacted in the hectic days of revolution.

This civil code was followed, in the next few years, by three others, similar in form and affecting commerce, criminal law, and the rules of civil and criminal process.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 21, 1904

Considerable contagion existed in Appleton at that time. Two cases of scarlet fever and two of diphtheria were among the contagious cases.

A marriage license had been issued to Fannie Louis of this city and C. A. Kitz of Milwaukee.

Mrs. John Graceley had returned to her home in this city after spending a few days as a guest of Mrs. H. D. Stevau at Green Bay.

The Rev. Perry Miller was at Marinette the previous night where he conducted special services at the Gram Methodist church.

Miss Margaret Ferguson was to entertain a group of friends that evening.

Mrs. H. H. Rogers was visiting friends in Wau-paca.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 20, 1919

One marriage out of every nine terminated in divorce, according to statistics issued by the bureau of census, that day.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university debated the League of Nations question in Boston the previous night.

Miss Sylvia Gildorf, Second-ave, was surprised by eleven friends at her home the previous evening. Those present were Nora Hennings, Rosella Sorensen, Ionea Feavel, Elizabeth Kranszsch, Rosetta Selig, Grace Feavel and Norma Krueger.

Mrs. Joseph Koffend, Jr. and two sons were visiting relatives in Chicago.

Miss Sarah Jones was awarded the prize at the weekly bridge party at Lika club the previous day. Three tables were in play.

THE CAUSE OF MYOCARDITIS

Science tells us over again that old age begins in the arteries.

Myocarditis is a most unsatisfactory name for it, but somehow this name has come into wide use by physicians to signify that very common condition, slow heart muscle failure which ends the careers of many prominent people. I think one of the recent news bulletins about Foch referred to the sclerosis of the heart. Sclerosis means disease characterized by a hardening. For instance, arteriosclerosis is hardening of the arteries. But the term myocarditis essentially means inflammation of the muscle of the heart, and while the condition may be originally brought on by some inflammation, a doctor does not think of chronic myocarditis as inflammatory; it is just a kind of sclerosis of the muscle, and probably in the majority of cases this heart muscle sclerosis is a part and parcel of a similar process in the whole arterial system.

Physicians at present believe that chronic myocarditis is often the consequence of some acute infection of earlier life, such as diphtheria, or some other infectious arthritis (rheumatic fever, inflammatory rheumatism). They think that overexertion may be a contributing cause, though this idea no longer bears the weight it bore with the medical fathers. Doctors today pretty generally agree that certain prolonged intoxications are likely to cause the heart-artery disease, cardio-vascular disease, arteriosclerosis, myocarditis, we are talking about; among these intoxications the most important is alcohol, and second comes tobacco, lead and some other poisons of industrial or domestic environments are recognized as causes.

The part played by spills in the causation of hardening of the arteries and slow heart muscle failure is difficult to estimate; some physicians give it great prominence, others minimize it; probably alcohol and tobacco are more prolific factors of cardio-vascular degeneration than is syphilis.

Modern studies suggest that in a large share of cases of chronic myocarditis the degenerative changes begin in the smaller arteries, or at least the physician can recognize pathological changes in the smaller arteries before he can detect any impairment of the heart. Thus Drs. J. P. O'Hare and A. W. Calhoun of Boston and H. O. Atwood of Minneapolis, in a study of 50 cases of chronic myocarditis showing normal or low blood pressures, found signs of sclerosis in the retinal arteries (the vessels in the back of the eye) in all but one case. In these 50 cases, moreover, the investigators were able to obtain records of blood pressure readings or measurements made at previous times, and in every instance the patients had shown hypertension at some time or other. In these cases the investigators took as the criteria of the diagnosis of chronic myocarditis not only the character of the heart sounds as heard with the stethoscope, but also the functional signs of impaired heart efficiency and the evidence of general circulatory insufficiency—rales in the bases of the lungs, enlargement of the liver and edema or swelling of the extremities. They conclude that chronic myocarditis in persons beyond middle age, in the absence of hyperthyroidism and valvular disease, is usually of vascular origin, that is, begins in the arteries.

Alcohol is notorious as a poison to the arteries. The young fools who are now cultivating alcohol in the childish fancy that it is smart to drink, are going to be sadder if they ever live to get wiser.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Old Timers Don't Know Human Body
I believe you are entirely right on the question of exposure. I have been exposed to cold weather in flimsy clothing countless times and never suffered the dire consequences manufacturers of "cold cures" and certain "health authorities" assure us are liable to follow such exposures. The human body would indeed be a defective machine if such trivial things as cold and dampness would interfere with its functions. (R. L. B.)

Answer—At that, the old timers had little knowledge of, and little respect for the human body. The present day "health authorities" who aid and abet the cold phobia probably draw subsidies in one form or another for their services. I have proof of this in several conspicuous instances.

From the Wabash to the Rio Grande
Please inform me if diseases common to children are more prevalent in Indiana and Kentucky than in the Gulf states. Each winter we have numerous cases of scarlet fever, diphtheria, whooping cough and measles, and the past winter quite a few cases of smallpox and influenza in our community. What would you say about our plan to move south, for the benefit of our children's health? (R. P. C.)

Answer—The move would probably not prove beneficial. Protect your children against the two chief dangers—diphtheria and smallpox—by having them immunized by your physician. Such diseases are quite as prevalent in the Gulf states as they are in your community.

Housecleaning and Airing
We are moving into a house where the present occupant has had lung hemorrhages, but no germs found when she had the TB test. Do we run any risk, and if so, how can we make the place safe to live in? (Mrs. W. E.)

Answering—Assuming the present occupant has lung tuberculosis (the proper abbreviation for tuberculosis is the, and not TB), if you give the rooms an ordinary housecleaning and airing, there is no danger in moving in and living there. The only danger is in personal, prolonged contact with the person who has the disease.

Another One Gone Glimmering
I have been getting bright glimmering waves before my eyes, at one side for 20 minutes or so, after the spell my stomach is terribly upset. (Mrs. K. M. C.)

Answer—The description suggests a type of migraine. However, you should have medical advice. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER

Washington—David W. Kaufman.

American minister to Bolivia, knows what it means to see war clouds blacken the horizon and then disappear almost as quickly as they came.

And we have his word for it that the experience is no fun. To be an ambassador of a neutral country and to be situated between two other nations, expecting that any moment they will fly at each other's throat, is far from being the most pleasant thing in the world. That was Mr. Kaufman's lot while he was at his post in La Paz during the recent disturbance between Bolivia and Paraguay.

The American minister is back in the United States after 10 months of service at La Paz. We sat with him for well over two hours the other afternoon and heard him describe in detail what took place in Bolivia last December when the crisis between Bolivia and Paraguay arose.

THE OUTBREAK

He described events in La Paz when the populace was told that the

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Glancing through a morning newspaper, I came upon a single phrase, which seemed fairly to leap out of the page. . . . "And when his stage engagements became scarce he returned to New York with his last $15. When that was gone he collapsed from undernourishment in his rooming house. . . . So died that grand old trouper John Thompson, at the age of 85. . . . so he died while starvation stood outside the door crying down the final curtain. . . .

It is the fear of just such a finale which haunts the hearts of every man, woman and child who has cast a hat into the Broadway ring. It comes to haunt them more and more as the years go by, and they find themselves still drowsing along in the "small time" ruts. Each player learns in his time that Age is his most remorseless enemy—that one day there will be no place for him, no public for him, no patience with him. He can tramp from office to office, always with the same reception. . . . And then what?

Perhaps like old John Thompson there will be one last round of the outlying circuits. And then, with $15 left, a last fling at Broadway.

Old John Thompson . . . the fellow they had called "the one-man show" . . . for couldn't he make eight changes, playing four instruments and writing his own songs and gags? . . . A "one-man show" playing all eight characters! . . . and just $15 left! . . . and so into a room way over by the river. . . . Ah, but a room on 42nd street, after all. . . . Good old 42nd street, the hub of the big belt. . . . Even down by the river, the big lights came streaming faintly by. . . . Just a hop-skip-and-jump from old friends who would have helped had they only known.

But old John didn't give them the "cue." . . . Nothing to eat. . . . No money for food. . . . Starvation coming slowly on the stage ready to ring down the curtain.

And scores of rich friends who rushed up when it was too late! After all, how were they to know!

Old Chelsea, which sits primly in the mid-Twenties like a nice old-fashioned lady with her knitting, will be the next to perish from the Manhattan picture.

And then there will be few places one may wander in the hope of recalling the days of lavender and old lace.

Chelsea Village they have come to call this quaint and quiet slice of New York, which juts back from the street with neat and tiny green lawns and rows of hedge. Going westward, toward the river on Twenty-eighth street, it is possible to step into a neighborhood which has undergone but slight architectural change since the Civil War times. All about the spirit of change has breathed against the skyline. But here one still can see old lawns and "stoops," and balconies shadowed in heavy Spanish grillwork, and flower pots in windows and belated curtains and strangely built stairways.

Chelsea has been physically untouched by time! Back in 1845, it was the "finest suburban development" . . . manipulated by early real estate men and made eminently fashionable. A few years ago it was a zone of old boarding houses. Then some of the Greenwich Villagers, discontented with the steady rise in rentals, began to look about for a new quarter. They pounced upon the reasonable rates of Chelsea Village, hammered out walls of the old rooming houses and soon had turned them into apartments. Fearing that this "great find" would be noised around, a strict silence was maintained. Even a few celebrities had come and gone. Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, took one of the houses. And when he left, Henry Hadley, the great musician, moved in. So did Boardman Robinson, the artist, and a great assortment of poets, novelists and stage folk.

With the spring, Chelsea Village will pass to the wreckers. probably let him in on the ground floor.

Italy is ready for war, says Mussolini, though none is in sight just now. Waiting for the outside chance, you might say.

COLLEGE PLAYERS OFFER "RICHELIEU" AT CHAPEL TONIGHT

Five-act Costume Drama
Is Sponsored by Sunset Players

The stage is set for Richelieu, a five-act costume drama by Sir Bulwer-Lytton, which will be put on at Lawrence Memorial chapel Thursday night by Sunset Players, Lawrence college dramatic organization. Richelieu have been held daily in the little theatre of the chapel under the direction of Miss Lucile Welty, instructor in public speaking.

The principal roles will be taken by Jack Willett as Richelieu, Eleanor Lea as Julie William Meyer as Mauprat, and Jack Rudolph as Baradas, the villain. All these actors are experienced in dramatic work and have been members of the group for at least two years. Jack Willett took the lead in "Twelfth Night" last year and played in the "Poor Nut" this year. William Meyer played in the "Romantic Age" and took the male lead in "Twelfth Night."

Other characters who appear in the play are the Duke of Orleans, William LeLaughlin; Marion de Lorme, Margaret Heckle; Messire de Biron, Donald Christensen; Clermont, Timothy Enright; Huguet, Charles Peereboom; Francois, Herbert Ungrodt; Joseph, Robert Valentine; King Louis XIII, George Beckley; Wilbur Melas, Wilmer Schaefer; Merton Zahrt, Daniel Hopkinson; Marion Anutta, and Muriel Renner, Courtes; Arthur Steinhilber, Delbert Parson, Earl Miller, Lyle Stephenson, Clarence Rydman, Richard Thibault, Soldiers, guards, and conspirators; Margaret Keller, Ruth Ann Linn, Lucile Ozanne, and Julia Ladwig, Pages.

This is the third major production of Sunset Players this year, the other two having been a collegiate comedy and a tragedy.

Keep Babies From Pins And Toys, Society Warns

Madison—Peanut candy is often fatal to babies. Safety-pins have killed more babies than have firearms. Small toys are fraught with danger to small boys and to small girls. A button box is a dangerous plaything for children; so is a string of beads.

"There is not a hospital in Wisconsin that has not an exhibit of cases on record illustrating the danger that comes by allowing babies to play with pins and toys," declares the educational committee of the Wisconsin State Medical Society in this week's bulletin. "The frequency of foreign body accidents is much greater than is realized."

Because of the increasing number of cases arising from children swallowing foreign bodies a special warning to mothers is issued by the Society. Pictures have been gathered by the Society, showing that operations upon children have been necessary because they have carelessly swallowed safety pins, coins, toys, bones, tacks, buttons, jewelry and rings. The number of objects taken from the lungs, air passages and stomachs of children approximate nearly one hundred.

"We have dozen of tacks that we have taken out of lungs," declares the bulletin. "Most of them are of the brass-headed type, which seems particularly attractive to children as a plaything to put in their mouths. Nails, screws, and other articles of hardware are also plentiful in our collection. Obviously it is careless to allow children to put such inedible articles into their mouths."

"But if a baby under two years of age, and hence without molars, gets a piece of peanut into the mouth, he cannot masticate it. There are only three things he can do: spit it out, swallow it whole, aspirate it into the lungs. If he spits it out, well and good; if he swallows it whole, it will pass through undigested; if he chokes on it, as is very likely, he will form of peanut butter. But whether or not this would be proper food for a baby is a question for the baby specialist or family physician to decide. One of the most common ways for a baby to get a piece of peanut kernel into his lung is from peanut candy. Parents often do not realize that after the candy dissolves there is left the nut kernel, upon which the baby is very liable to choke. The choking is followed by a deep inspiration, and down goes the fragment of nut kernel into the baby's lungs. Other nut candies are equally dangerous, but are not purchased so frequently, and for this reason fall to figure prominently in the statistics of our clinic."

Gassy Stomach

Can you eat a meal and never feel any discomfort? Or do you suffer every time with gas, bloating, belching and that distressed feeling of a full stomach? ZINSEP Compound restores stomach comfort quickly, easily and safely. Bees, unlike soda, magnesia, stomach tablets or other laxative, digestive aids, which at best provide only fleeting relief, ZINSEP actually tends to correct the cause by removing the cause; in other words, it has permanent value. ZINSEP is no experiment; it has been tested for years in hospitals of cases. Neither is it a general remedy; it is solely for the stomach, which fact accounts for its unusual purity. Physicians prescribe it and the foremost medical authorities recognize the value of its ingredients. We recommend and guarantee ZINSEP for sour, gassy stomach, hyperacidity, bloating, belching, bad breath, gastritis, indigestion, nausea, flatulence, gas, heartburn, distress and similar troubles. Quick And Easy Aids In Cleaning

BY SISTER MARY

DO you clean your flat silver as your mother did, with much elbow grease, a little silver polish and a can of soda? If you do you're wasting precious minutes on non-essentials, for flat silver will clean beautifully if given a bath in an aluminum bottle containing boiling water, baking soda and table salt. Let the water boil for a minute or two, remove silver from water, rinse in boiling water and wipe dry. The knives and forks and spoons are sterilized as well as brightened in one process.

Large pieces of silver do not lend themselves to this treatment, so they require the silver polish and chamois treatment. There are innumerable excellent brands of silver polish on the market, but this warning I would venture. Follow the directions on the container. If the manufacturer recommends his product with suggestions he has a reason for it and if the user would enjoy the best results she should follow the rules.

PEWTER TAKES CARE

Pewter is used a great deal for table service as well as decoration nowadays and requires intelligent handling if the soft, satiny finish is preserved. The following method is said to have been used in England for a great many years: "Dissolve one-half cup of sal soda in one gallon of water. Let it come to a boil and immerse the pewter in it. Let boil for a quarter of an hour. Take out and polish with a soft silver polish." Vinegar or lemon juice and salt brings out the luster in pewter without scratching the surface and without too great an expenditure of energy. Just enough liquid to moisten the salt is needed. An abrasive should never be used on pewter.

Vinegar or lemon juice and salt is the most effective means of cleaning brass or copper. When used on either of these metals the solution should be rinsed off quickly in clear water. Then polish with a soft cloth and the articles will glitter most satisfactorily.

A cloth moistened with a salt and vinegar solution will remove the streaks from a porcelain or enameled table top.

This same salt and vinegar solution added to the water in which flower vases are washed will be effective in removing water rings. There are of course efficient metal cleaners on the market, but for the occasional piece, the housekeeper will find vinegar or lemon juice and salt perfectly adequate, perfectly safe and delightfully quick and easy to use. It's also cheap and always at hand.

STRAW USED LIKE MATERIAL IN NEW HATS

The small straw hats are treated as nearly as possible now like those of fabric. This is possible since the straw braids have been made so flexible and substantial. One hat, for example, is made almost like a ribbon hat. It gives the appearance of having been thrown over the head in the form of a loose kerchief and all the fullness gathered and tied over the left ear, leaving crown and brim tight to the head.

Household Hints

SPRING SOUP

Use up your next roast bone by making the family a spring soup. This is a cross between a regular vegetable soup and a stew. Add every vegetable you have, season with curry and cook slowly. It makes an excellent and satisfying supper dish.

CANARY FOOD

Does your little bird get his spring green regularly? You can grow a little bird garden easily and it will delight your feathered pet. A pinch of mustard seed, bird seed, chickweed or other green will bring forth little sprigs of green shortly. Remove the bottom of the cage and set the cage over the garden for the bird to scratch around in. He will love it.

BAKING DISHES

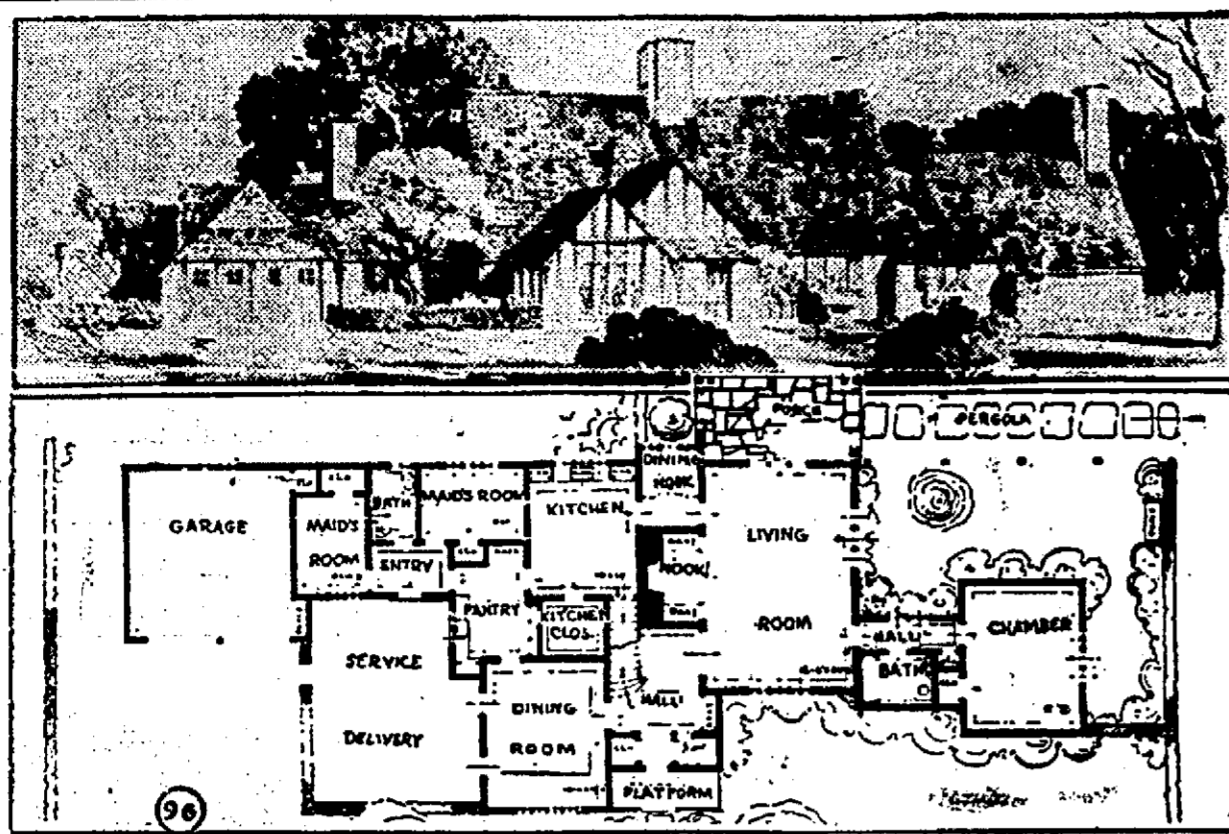

When baking dishes are stained from constant use, soak them in warm suds and loxax over night. Then scour and rinse.

An Architectural Ensemble

BY CORA W. WILSON

For NEA Service

YES, this is a "model house." But the plans were drawn and the materials selected at the beginning and a price was secured later—which is a reversal of the usual procedure in building "model houses."

The exterior has an architectural ensemble effect. One takes note of the roof. It's in tans, grays and blues, with dark tans and light browns to give it variety and depth of color. The slats are laid in regular fashion. Observe the outside walls. They are half timber, stucco, stone and common brick—a combination that blends with the roof. The effect is peculiarly pleasing because the colors all are those of natural materials.

A STUCCO BACKGROUND

The half timber in oak constitutes the most effective feature of the outside walls. The timber is hand adzed. The beauty of these beams lies in the grain of the wood and this is brought out in detail. The stucco is gray whitewash and makes an attractive background. The gable over the garage doors to the left is stucco or adzed oak boards.

All the windows are of leaded antique glass—a feature distinctive in itself.

The visitor enters a front hall and sees the living room to the right and dining room to the left, with a guests' coat closet inside the door.

The living room extends the entire length of the house.

There is a sunny, bright dining room with butler's pantry and kitchen to the rear.

GARAGE AND HOUSE JOINED A bed room and bath for the guest is on the right of the living room. Two maids' or children's rooms also are on this floor, with a bath. The garage is attached to the house.

On the second floor are two bedrooms and two baths. This house also may be built as a six room structure, eliminating the wings.

For additional information and cost estimate write Mrs. Cora W. Wilson, 420 Madison Avenue, New York City, and be sure to enclose the clipping from this newspaper.

"Explosion?" Harry Blaine echoed. "Dynamite?"

Tony Tarver made a face at him, which ended in a yawn. Her face looked alarmingly pale. "And I never dreamed you were blind, poor dear," she was murmuring in a faltering tone. "Don't tell me you haven't noticed that Cherry Jonson is teething like a miniature volcano."

"Cherry?" Harry repeated, astonished. "She's seemed rather unobtrusive this evening."

Tony chuckled, then yawned again widely. "That's exactly why she's teething—because no one has noticed her particularly this evening."

Crys has the spotlight, and I don't think Cherry is going to be able to bear it many more minutes. She's just waiting to come to a boil, or whatever it is that volcanoes do, and so 'Fair Flyer Flutters Home' she grinned, and with mock groans of agony drew in her long legs and hoisted herself from the comfortable couch.

"Let me see you home," Harry Blaine suggested, springing to his feet in time to throw a steady arm about her shoulders, as she stood swaying dizzily before the couch. "Good heavens, child! You are exhausted."

Tony's head dropped to his shoulder, and her slim body sagged wearily against the boy's. "Don't mind if I seem to be hugging you," she muttered in a queer, faraway voice, as her right arm crooked about his neck. "Not going to faint—just a little dizzy."

Harry Blaine was so concerned about the girl that he did not notice that the radio music had stopped and that all of Blaine's guests were staring at them curiously, unconprehendingly. Neither did he hear swift steps crossing the room, so that the angry voice that lashed his face in honest surprise.

"Turn Tony loose, Blaine, or I'll smash your nose in!" Dick Talbot's flushed face was so near that the reporter instinctively raised his hand to ward him off. "If you dare kiss her, I'll—I'll—the furious voice went on.

Tony's slim body jerked taut, her black-crested head jerked up from its resting place on Harry Blaine's shoulder, and her blue eyes blazed. Then suddenly, astonishingly, she laughed, as her hand reached up and patted Harry Blaine's cheek. "Thanks for the suggestion, Dick darling! I'm afraid it hadn't occurred to Harry to kiss me, but now, if you'll excuse us. . . . You know how it is, Dick. One gets so much more kick out of a kiss in the dark. . . . Shall we go, Harry? . . . Oh, here you are, Faith! Awfully nice party, but you won't mind if I leave early, will you? I'm rather tired, and—"

"Tony!" Dick Talbot's choked, furious, pleading voice cut in. "I'm sorry I acted such a fool, but I've got to see you!" He turned to Harry Blaine desperately. "I apologize, Blaine. But she's promised to let me take her home—"

"And now she's changed her mind," Tony interrupted firmly. "Dick, Dick! Won't you ever grow up? You're far too old now to suik like a spoiled baby. . . . Good night, Crystal darling. I'll see you in the morning, if I wake up."

NEXT: A kiss in the dark.

Mrs. Kreiss Gives Paper On Brahms

MRS. W. H. Kreiss presented paper on the life and work of Johannes Brahms at the meeting of the Wednesday Musicales Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Eric D. Lindberg, W. Prospect-ave. Current events and community singing were followed by a program composed of Brahms numbers with one exception, Julius Assman from "Stabat Mater" by Rossini. The program was arranged by Mrs. Kreiss included a piano duet, Hungarian Dance, No. 5 played by Mrs. C. T. Richter and Mrs. W. Commentz, two vocal solos, Vain suite and "Weinleiden," a lullaby, sung by Mrs. J. P. Frank. Other selections were violin duets by Mrs. Emil Voock and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Voock. They played waltzes by Brahms accompanied by Mrs. R. W. Klotsch. Mrs. Lacey Horton sang "Wie Melodien Zieht es Mir" and "Sandmännchen" and the program was concluded with the piano duet from "Stabat Mater" by Mrs. Richter and Mrs. Commentz. Sixteen members were present. Mrs. W. K. Kolb will be hostess at the next meeting, Wednesday afternoon, April 3. Mrs. W. M. Wright will be the program chairman and the topic of the day will be Present Day Composers. Those who will take part in the program will be Miss Barbara Kamps, Mrs. S. J. Kloehn, Mrs. R. W. Klotsch, Mrs. A. H. Milon and Mrs. S. W. Murphy.

VOTE SIX NEW MEMBERS INTO EAGLES LODGE

One hundred fifty members attended the meeting of Fraternal Order of Eagles Wednesday night at Eagle hall. Six candidates were obligated and twenty two applications were acted upon. At the meeting next Wednesday night all applications for the President's class to be initiated on April 3 will be received. Otto Tilly reported all arrangements have been completed for the annual Easter dance Monday night, April 1 which will be a waltz and two-step party with Mumm's orchestra playing the dance program. A Daehle said the first rehearsal for the minstrel show was held last Monday night and invited any member of the lodge to be present at the second rehearsal Friday night of this week. The officers of the lodge will meet soon to complete final arrangements for the initiation program on April 3.

LODGE NEWS

Four tables of cards were in play at the weekly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles Wednesday afternoon at Eagle hall. Mrs. Mae Knack, Mrs. Augusta Latham, and Mrs. Paul Schroeder won the prizes at schafkopf. An open card party the first Tuesday in April was planned at the meeting of the Womens Benefit association Wednesday night at Appleton Womens Club. Mrs. Annie Hassman will be chairman of the party.

ANNE MORROW AND LINDY TO WED IN JUNE

Mexico City — (P) — Miss Anne Morrow is to be a June bride. Miss Morrow and her fiance, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, themselves have authorized announcement they will be married in that month. They have not decided, however, whether the wedding is to take place in Mexico or in the United States. The colonel is expected to fly back to Mexico City within a few weeks on another visit with Miss Morrow, at which time something more definite as to their plans will be revealed. There are indications he will make two visits before the wedding. The announcement of the incomplete wedding arrangements was made Wednesday by persons close to the betrothed pair in line with promises nearly a month ago during the colonel's visit here that the plans of the young couple would be revealed in due course and that there would not be an elopement or secret wedding. There was speculation here as to whether the present internal conditions in Mexico could cause the wedding to be held outside this country. Mexican officials have repeatedly expressed their hope that the two will be married in Mexico, where their romance began.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

The Home builders of Memorial Presbyterian church will meet at 8 o'clock Friday night at the church for the monthly business and social meeting. Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. S. Reid will serve as members of the refreshment committee and Mr. and Mrs. George Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Palmer will be members of the entertainment committee.

Members of Christian Mother society of St. Joseph church will make their Easter communion at 8 o'clock Friday morning at St. Joseph church. Reception of new members will take place at this time.

Zion Lutheran Mission society met for a business meeting Wednesday afternoon in the assembly room of the Zion school. A social meeting of the organization will be held on April 3.

Mrs. William Rounds and Mrs. C. Scabone entertained St. Agnes Guild at a 1 o'clock luncheon Tuesday at the Rounds home on E. Alton-st. A silver offering was taken and plans were made for the Easter Monday card party at the parish hall, and for a rummage sale April 16 at the hall. The last cake sale this season will be at 10 o'clock Saturday of this week at Voigt's drug store. The Guild will meet for a business session next Tuesday afternoon at the parish hall.

CLUB MEMBERS WEAR GOWNS OF BYGONE DAYS

Grandmother's and great grandmother's wedding gowns, shawls that graced shoulders a century ago, bonnets made to be worn with corkscrew curls, jewelry of the hoop skirt era, all came back into resplendent glory Wednesday afternoon when 23 members of the Tuesday Study club attended an old fashioned party in costume at the home of Miss Flora Kethroe, E. Washington-st. The afternoon was spent informally and full of recollections, beginning "When I was a Child." Baby pictures of the members were used as place cards at the luncheon. The tables were decorated with cut flowers. Mrs. W. O. Thiede, Mrs. R. B. Thiel and Miss Kethroe were members of the committee in charge. Mrs. Al Pynn will be the hostess at the meeting on Wednesday, April 3. A spring program will be given by Mrs. H. J. Searles, Mrs. J. Graef and Mrs. A. J. Maline. Mrs. J. Joslyn has returned from Madison where she spent a week visiting her daughter, Margaret, a student at the University of Wisconsin.

CARD PARTIES

The first of the series of open card parties given by Christian Mother society of St. Joseph church will be at 8 o'clock Monday night, April 2, at St. Joseph hall. Schafkopf, bridge, plumpack and cinch will be played and Melitz orchestra will play for the social to be held with the card party.

PARTIES

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shivers were surprised by 35 friends Wednesday evening at their home at 633 W. Atlantic-st. Bridge was played. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Stone of Neenah, L. Wasserman of Sheboygan, L. Frank of New York, Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldin and son and daughter of Kaukauna and B. Nashburn of Milwaukee.

NURSES RETURN FROM MADISON CONFERENCE

Miss Jane Barclay, school nurse, and Miss Marie Karsseboom, city nurse, returned Wednesday evening from Madison, where they attended sessions of the ninth annual conference on public health nursing, held in that city this week. One Tuesday evening Miss Barclay and Karsseboom attended a banquet at the Lorraine hotel.

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells. Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unmistakably plump. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy, its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure. Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you. Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 50c, 60c, adv.

TOWNSWATER STILL

OVER STREETSSome North Side Families
Abandon Homes as Flood Covers First Floors

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Water in the Embarras and Wolf rivers rose steadily throughout Wednesday and continued during the night and conditions already had been made worse along N. Water-st. and throughout the Fifth and Second wards. Pumps installed in basements of the Elwood hotel, Grand theatre, First National bank and other business places proved inadequate to cope with water which constantly seeped through walls and floors. Heating plants were rendered useless when water rose to the level of grates. These business establishments are not heated with improved heating systems, consisting of electric and oil stoves. The Grand theatre along the thoroughfare was flooded and water was reported seeping into the ground floor of the Vandree department store.

Waupaca—Between St. John's place and Shananoost, which was practically dry on Tuesday, was covered with several inches of water on Wednesday and this water is gradually creeping up on the dwellings and stores extending from N. Water-st. to State-st. in a few places immediately adjoining the river bank on New London's south side trouble was brewing. Pumps were installed in the LaMarche Produce company's basement and in the Allen barber shop. Borden's and the American Plywood company are meeting the emergency well with pumps and ditches though water threatens continually.

A number of north side families, whose homes were surrounded with water have left their houses. First floors of many residences which are built without high foundations are already covered with water.

WATERS SPREADING

Water at the foot of N. Water-st. is spreading and a swift current sweeps down Shawano-st. to join the waters of the rising Wolf. This river, which on Tuesday was on a level with the concrete embankment at Memorial park on Wednesday covered a portion of the little square. The district west of the city presents a gloomy expanse of gray water which stretches for miles. Through this only one thread of solid ground can be seen—the Northport road at which the current of the mingled strength of Wolf and Embarras waters constantly gnaws. Loads of sand, gravel and lumber were being rushed along this road late on Wednesday and work continued throughout the night in an effort to save the highway which was built at a tremendous cost.

City officials and residents in inundated districts recall the expense of the flood of 1922, when taxpayers paid damages amounting to $10,000 and pavements, roadbeds and other costs amounted to a cost of $15,000. At that time water covered all of N. Water-st. and power boats and rowboats plied up the street as far as Crisley's store.

Many citizens feel that the greatest strength of both rivers has been spent and that Wednesday saw the peak of the flood. Rain or snow, scheduled to fall on Thursday night would add to the gravity of the situation. Blasting continued Wednesday along the upper Embarras in an effort to clear the waters about railroad bridges held back by ice. Hamilton's resumed operation in one of two departments, with employees being conveyed to and from work in company trucks. Fathers in hipboots waited at the close of school for children unable to cross the flooded streets and little people were carried home pick-a-back.

CONTINUE CLASSES

The regular routine at the McKinley school has been adhered to under difficulties, but it was thought that children were safest under the supervision of teachers than by endangering their health playing in water. The school is entirely isolated, but planking provides a footing for teachers and children.

Sanitation problems are increasingly troublesome, as all sewers are flooded. Cars still are able to progress along Shawano-st. at low rate of speed. The water on Wednesday was much swifter and deeper than hitherto.

Shiocton roads are all flooded as is also the road through Liberty to Stephansville. Some farmers along part of this road are able to reach the city, but all the district about the point where the road crosses the Wolf river is covered with several feet of water. The cross road through the swamp to Hortonville is barred to travel. Trouble was reported in Caledonia, southwest of New London, where the water of the run-off of the Wolf has flooded its banks and at several points is running swiftly over roadbeds. Cottagers in this district fear the loss of their property.

HATTON STORE BEING REMODELED IN CITY

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Work has been begun on the store building owned by W. H. Hatton at the corner of N. Water-st. and St. John's place. The entire front of the store has been torn away and will be replaced by a new entrance of red tile composition, with a display window. The interior of the building will be rebuilt, shelving erected and the walls refinished in light attractive colors. The building has not yet been leased, but reconstruction of the building was begun during a lull in work at the mill.

Demming were winners in bridge and Mrs. Herman Price and John Dotonsek received awards in schafkopf.

PALLBEARERS NAMED FOR SCHOENROCK RITES

New London—Pallbearers at the funeral of Frank Schoenrock, 76, who died at his home at 7:30 Tuesday morning will include Henry Rihmsam, Arnold R. Margraff, William T. J. Bieschke, George W. Wittinger and Henry Gleich. Mr. Schoenrock, who was a mason and contractor by trade, was well known in many cities in the state through his work on both private homes and public buildings. With his sons he was in charge of the erection of the new Christian Science church at Oshkosh, as well as several residences in that city.

The funeral will be held at the new Emanuel Lutheran church building in this city, the Seymour auditorium, the Lutheran church at Black Creek and a number of district schools within a radius of 40 miles.

WAUPACA MAN INJURED
AS HE UNLOADS COWS

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—Charles Kruska, Center-st., suffered a severe gash over the left eye when he was kicked by a cow while he was unloading cows from his truck at the Sim Shambeau cattle station on W. Union-st. on Monday morning. He was reported some better Tuesday evening, although he still was unable to open the eye due to the swelling.

Mrs. Arthur Chandler resigned her position as stenographer at the Farmers State bank Saturday, and Miss Helen Hannon has accepted the place vacated by her.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Delano visited Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vaughn at Stevens Point.

Founders Day party, under the auspices of the Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church, including both parent societies and the Eastern Auxiliary was held Tuesday evening in the church parlors. A program was presented and light refreshments were served.

A Father and Sons banquet will be held at 6:30 Thursday evening at the M. E. church. The following program will be given: Toastmaster, L. W. Lower, grace, Rev. P. C. Richardson, group singing led by Dr. H. I. Lewis, song by the male quartet, greetings by Rev. P. C. Richardson; mandolin selection, Colvin Curtis; "Fathers," Edmund Johnson; song by Wallace Edwards; song by Clifford Quinby; song by Ronald Solie; quartet selections and an address by the Rev. G. K. MacInnis of Milwaukee.

Clarence Cleaveland of Madison, is auditing the books in the office of the county highway commission this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ross of Kaukauna visited Sunday at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. L. J. Stadler.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis and daughter Justine and Miss Edna Fommert visited at Appleton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peterson and son visited in Appleton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Stratton and Blanche-Fay Valentine spent Sunday in Appleton.

The workers of the primary department of the M. T. church Sunday school, Mrs. Carrol Crisv, superintendent, had a paint brush and thumb party in the parlors of the church Monday. After a basket lunch, the workers proceeded with tasks which will cause the rooms of their department to present a new and beautiful appearance for Easter.

Tuesday afternoon a group of the ladies and neighbors helped Mrs. Ruth Ashdown and Mrs. Hardy Phizz celebrate their respective birthdays; it being Mrs. Ashdown's eightieth birthday.

Outline Tentative Plans For Better Gardens Work

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Generous prizes and months of interesting community work have been arranged for all entrants in the Better Gardens contest which is being launched by the Lions club. E. L. Reuter, chairman of the committee on arrangements, on Wednesday announced the plan which is being worked out, and though all details are not yet complete enough of the project can be outlined to show that every man, woman and child may have a part in the work which will bring all gardeners together in the enjoyment of operating well-planned, well-groomed gardens.

A prize will be awarded to the boy who constructs the best and most artistic birdhouse found on his home premises and another prize will be offered to the best flower garden planned planted and cared for by a girl.

Entrants in the adult class are to be divided into three groups. Class A will interest the man and woman whose garden is cared for by members of the immediate family, and whose property is assessed at a value of $5,000 or less.

Class B will interest the property owner who employs help and whose assessed property value exceeds the $5,000 mark. A third class is to be created for committees interested in the beautification of public buildings and though no cash prize can be awarded this last group, some certificate of merit will reward efforts in raising the standard of appearances about schools, churches, factories and other buildings.

May 15 has been set as the day when the entries will be closed. Entry blanks will be printed and circulated to all residents. Final judging of gardens will be based on a system of points, these in turn to cover untidiness, screening of unsightly objects, general plan of the garden, condition of lawn, trees, shrubs and flowers.

In order to encourage new plantings of permanent shrubs and trees and flower entrance will do well to plan now on building up their gardens by the careful addition of new vines, grouping of perennials and annuals. Every encouragement will be given by the committee and it is thought that sufficient prize money will be accumulated to make the contest well worth while to every contestant.

WAUPACA SCHOOL HOLDING ANNUAL SPEECH CONTESTSTotal of 22 Students Are Taking Part in Elimination Competition

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—The annual contests to determine the school representatives in oratory, declamatory and extemporaneous speaking are now in progress. Sixteen girls are trying out in declamatory and six boys in oratory competition, under the tutelage of six teachers.

Eight girls spoke Tuesday afternoon. They are Mae Barber, Nellie Bender, Olive Charbonneau, Carolyn Court, Beatrice and Jessie Davling, Edna Galloway and Anne Jensen.

The remaining eight—Bessie Johnson, Martin Kratz, Ramona Martin, Agneta Moller, Louise Nelson, Beulah Nourse, Irene Olson and Gladys, Smith—appeared Wednesday afternoon. From the 16 four are to be chosen to appear in the final Monday afternoon, at which time the school declaimers will be chosen. The judges are Misses Pearl Chamberlain, Gladys Amundsen and Helen Simonsen.

School authorities are particularly pleased at the interest shown by the underclassmen, seven of the sixteen girls being freshmen, four sophomores. Of the remainder, two are juniors and three are seniors.

Thursday afternoon the six boys working on oratory appeared. They are Alvin Rogers, Ralph Durrant, Quinn Martin, Robert Tunks, Floyd Johannkecht and James Luther. All of these boys have been coached by A. N. Howalt of the high school faculty. They will be chosen to compete Monday, when the winners to represent the school will be selected. The judges in the oratory contest are Misses Laura Shoemaker and Alma Walter and W. O. Kalsow.

There is no competition in the extemporaneous speaking contest and Donald Nelson will receive a gold medal along with the declamatory and oratory winners.

The judges Monday at 3:30 P. M. are to be James V. Carow, Mrs. Dayton Baldwin and Mrs. A. C. Barry.

It is expected now that the league contest will be held at Manawa on Tuesday, April 9. In this league contest, Weyauwega, Manawa, Waupaca, and Tola will compete.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice. Known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you and the other for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health: keep the head cool, the feet warm and the bowels open.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?

REHABILITATION OF RADIO COMMISSION IS EXPECTED SOON

Believes President Hoover Will Fill Vacant Posts Within Few Days

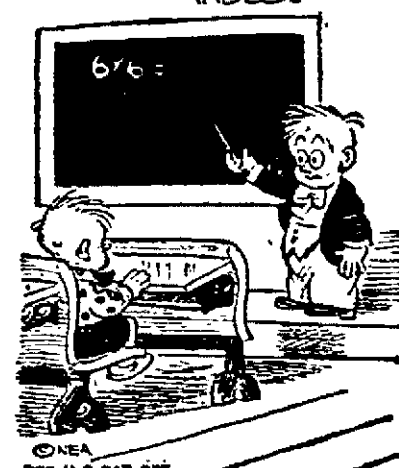

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1929, by the Consolidated Press Association

Washington—Rehabilitation of the Federal Radio Commission, which for the past month has been limping along with two of its executive posts vacant and with several gaps in its engineering staff is promised by President Hoover within the next few days.

President Hoover has not yet decided upon the men for the eastern and middle western commissions but hopes to be able to name them possibly by Friday. He is aware of the fact that the work of the commission is being impeded with only a bare quorum of its legal membership authorized to act, and he desires to rectify this condition with dispatch. But it is stated on Mr. Hoover's behalf, other matters confronting the new administration have retarded the naming of the new commissioners.

In the meantime speculation is rife in Washington as to who will be given the important First and Fourth zone radio portfolios. Perhaps of equal importance is the selection by the full commission of its new chairman. This contest waxes warm as between the incumbent chairman, Ira E. Robinson, of West Virginia, representing the Second or East Central zone, and Harold A. Lafount, commissioner of the Fifth or Pacific zone. Both are Republicans, and, therefore, are eligible. One of the incoming commissioners will be a Republican, but it is unlikely that a new man will be selected to preside over the activities of the commission. The fact that President Hoover has been unable as yet to decide upon the new commissioners is accepted as a clear indication that he does not contemplate the renaming of both of the nominees of President Coolidge, who failed of confirmation by the senate prior to its adjournment on March 4. The name of professor C. M. Jansky, Jr., of Minneapolis, to succeed Sam Pickard for the fourth zone, as one of the Democratic members of the commission, still is prominently mentioned, but that of Arthur Batcheller, radio supervisor at New York, evidently has dropped out of the picture.

FINED $10 FOR NOT HAVING CAR LICENSE

William Hofacker, route 5, Appleton, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Wednesday afternoon when he pleaded guilty of driving an automobile without proper license plates. He was arrested Tuesday by Gus Hersekorn, motorcycle officer.

L. W. Steiner, 312 W. Weimar-st., was arrested Wednesday night on a charge of failure to stop for an arterial at the corner of Wisconsin-ave and Richmond-st. The arrest was made by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer. Steiner is to appear in municipal court Thursday afternoon.

NEW POSTAL RATE GOES IN EFFECT TOMORROW

Beginning Friday all special requests for envelopes in large quantities at the Appleton post office will be sold under the new rate schedule which was recently approved by congress. Under the new schedule there is an average reduction of approximately 32 cents per thousand on all sizes of envelopes. The reduction will go into effect generally on April 1.

RETAILERS OPPOSE CHAIN STORE BILL

Claim Proposed Statute Is Discriminatory and Prejudicial

The retail division of Appleton chamber of commerce probably will go on record as being opposed to a bill now before the state legislature establishing a tax on chain stores in the state. A special committee of the division reported recently as opposed to the bill.

The first objection is that not all types of chain stores are included in the law and that the $500 fee asked as a tax is too much.

It also is claimed that the statute would be prohibitory to business, and discriminatory and prejudicial. The committee which reported on the bill was composed of John H. Neller, A. J. Genesee, and J. R. Whitman.

CONSIDER FIRE JOB

APPLICANTS AT MEET

The fire and police commission will meet Thursday evening to set a date for holding examinations to choose several firemen and also to consider more than 25 applications that have been received for the vacancies, according to E. A. Schmalz, commission secretary. The men making the marks in the examinations will be chosen to fill the vacancies.

ELECT DIRECTORS AT STOCKHOLDERS MEET

Directors were elected at the annual meeting of stockholders of the Leath and company at Elgin, Ill., early this week, according to reports received here. They are C. E. Lindberg, Rockford, W. D. Downs, A. C. Foster, George Buffington and Albert Brooks. Mr. Lindberg also is president of the company.

EUROPE'S FIRST HOUSE FOUND

Remains of lake dwellings which date back more than 7,000 years to the Stone Age, have recently been unearthed by workmen near Lake Zurich, in Switzerland. Stones, spears, axes and domestic utensils were among the objects found. The structures which supported the wooden platforms on which the dwellings were built are made of strong piles of tree trunks driven into the bottom of the lake. A combination of clay and wood was used in the construction of the lake huts, slabs of stone bearing inscriptions of the Stone Age in hieroglyphics.

Hawaii expects to produce more than 216,000,000 cans of pineapple this year which, if canned and placed side by side, would reach half way around the world.

Pity the Man "On a Diet"

Just To Look at a Good Appetizing New England Boiled Dinner Raises a Riot in His Poor Dilapidated Stomach.

When certain kinds of food upset your stomach and cause indigestion, sourness, gas and general misery why punish yourself by going "on a diet."

Why not start to rebuild your broken down stomach—Why not make your weak stomach so strong and vigorous that it will be able to digest and assimilate even the heartiest foods?

You've probably tried a lot of "re-laxers" that help for an hour or so and then leave your stomach in as bad a condition as ever.

Why not try the sensible plan of taking a remedy that not only brings almost instant relief, but has the power to tone up your disabled stomach and put it in such a clean and splendid condition that it will soon be able to digest anything you eat, without a particle of distress?

Such a medicine is Dare's Mentha-Pepsin, a pleasant, palatable elixir that Schlitz Bros. Co., Veto's Drug Store and up to date druggists anywhere in America are perfectly willing to sell on a basis of money back if it doesn't give the fullest measure of satisfaction.

Royal Rose In Your Garden Needs Royal Care

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the tenth of a series of twelve articles on "Planning and Planting for Spring," which Romaine B. Ware, nationally known garden authority, is writing for The Post-Crescent and NEA Service.

BY ROMAINE B. WARE

In an earlier article I wrote about pruning your roses, but there is much other care that the rose garden needs in the spring besides pruning. The rose is "queen" of the flowers and comes by the name rightly, but if the rose is to be the "queen" in your garden you will have to give her a royal amount of care. Roses are among the most particular of all the garden flowers and they will reward you gloriously if you care for them as they deserve to be cared for.

Early in the spring they must be pruned, as described the other day. Without proper pruning they will not grow and bloom right. Next they must have cultivation. This does not mean that when the weeds threaten to choke them you can cultivate. Roses should be cultivated every day if possible. Needless to note that one must really love roses to cultivate them every day, but you will find it will pay and they will teach you to love them if you really give them the care they deserve. After cultivation comes feeding. Roses are what is known as rank feeders. They produce enormous amounts of growth and great numbers of blossoms if cared for right and they can not do this without feeding. Nor should they be fed in large doses nor too much of the same thing. Small doses given at regular intervals and varied as to material is the best way. The first thing in the spring they will relish a liberal dressing of barnyard manure well worked into the soil. In lieu of this a dressing of humus and bone meal will be beneficial. Then about every two weeks they should have a light dressing of some of the following: sheep manure, blood meal, nitrate of soda, bone meal, or liquid manure made from them.

There is a great variety of commercial fertilizers on the market and some of them are very good. The principal thing is to keep the bushes growing vigorously all the time. Spraying, cultivating, feeding and pruning will give you the results if you will just do it.

Hard, Large Pimples Burned Terribly. Healed by Cuticura.

"My pimples first broke out a few at a time, would heal up and then break out again. They were hard and large and some of them festered. They burned terribly and I used to lie awake at night and scratch them. Scratching caused eruptions. The trouble lasted about a year. I tried several different remedies but none of them helped me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief, and in about a month I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Christena Marlan, Carbon, Ind., Aug. 31, 1928.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

CATTLE OUTNUMBER PEOPLE BY 5 TO 1 RATIO IN URUGUAY

PROPORTION IN UNITED STATES IS ONLY 1 TO 2

Most Countries Producing Surplus Cattle in Western Hemisphere

BY FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States has only 58,180,000 of the 629,000,000 head of cattle in the world, a survey of all important countries shows. Nearly one-fourth of the total, or 150,332,000 head, are in British India, while Russia, with 59,180,000 ranks second.

In the ratio between human and cattle population it is revealed that the United States has but 500 head for each 1,000 population. China is the lowest, with 55, while Uruguay's 5,000 head per 1,000 population leads the world.

Most of the countries producing a surplus of cattle are in the western hemisphere, notably in South America. Uruguay has five head of cattle for every person; Paraguay, Argentina, four. Other countries in which there is a high proportion of cattle to human population are New Zealand, Australia, Union of South Africa, Irish Free State and Brazil.

The survey shows a rather striking similarity between methods in use in the United States and those in other important livestock countries.

While the United States ranks high among the countries most active in improvement, its efforts have been largely along educational lines, whereas a number of other countries have given more direct assistance, such as financial aid to breeders of improved stock and official awards at shows.

Uruguay probably has the greatest density of livestock population in the world: Sheep and cattle predominate, the ratio of number being about 900,000 cattle and twice that number of sheep. Breeds include all the best known British and American types. Livestock matters are fostered mainly by stockmen's associations.

The rural society exerts a strong influence on livestock improvement. Considerable number of purchased stock are imported annually from Europe, the United States and from Argentina. The stockmen are allowed loans at a low rate of interest to pay for imported stock.

The survey shows there are more cattle in the world than sheep, and more than twice as many as there are swine. It is noticeable that cattle are more evenly distributed throughout the world than either sheep or swine. There is, however, some concentration in the larger numbers, as only five countries have more than 20,000,000 cattle within their borders. In the order of magnitude, they are British India, Russia, the United States, Argentina and Brazil. Of the five, cattle are most highly developed and of most economic significance in the United States and Argentina.

White the 250,000,000 inhabitants of British India do not eat the flesh of cattle, the ox is the universal motive power and the cow supplies milk products, including "ghee," a native butter, which are prime food necessities.

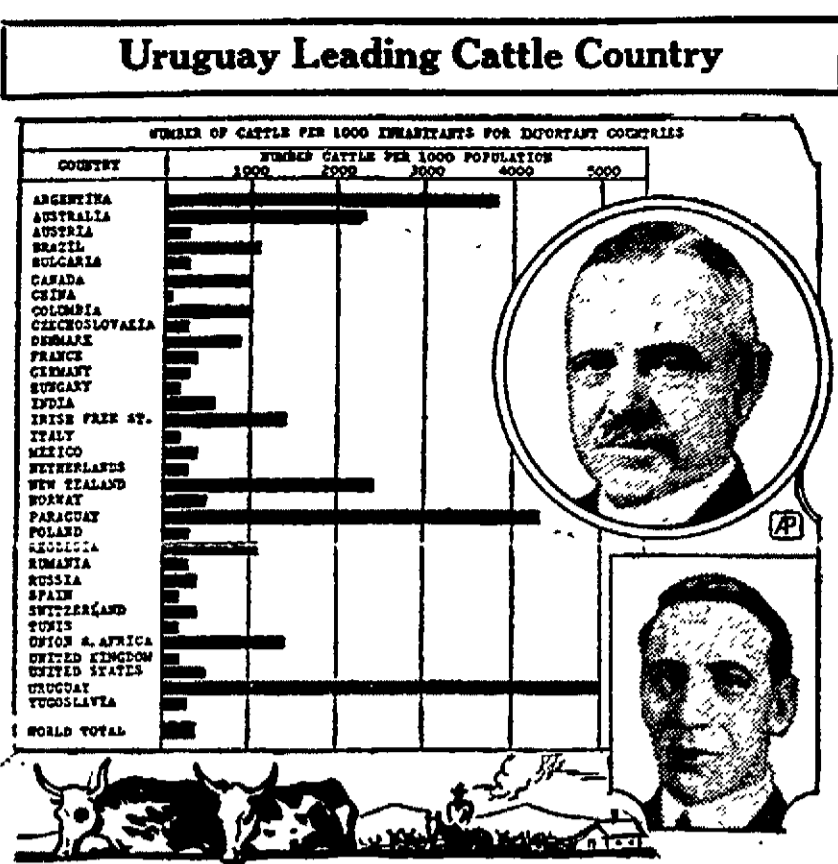

Argentina, with its enormous herds of high grade beef cattle, is the most important surplus cattle country in the world.

ARKANSAS BOY SETS HIGH COTTON RECORD

Produces 1,474 Pounds of Lint on Acre for Net Profit of $249.72

Little Rock, Ark. — (AP) — A 17-year-old Arkansas boy has hung up a cotton production record for the state which is believed to be among the highest in the south. Milton Brown, 14-H club member, produced last season 1,474 pounds of lint, or about three bales, on a measured acre at a net profit of $249.72.

Officials of the University of Arkansas college of agriculture, who announced the achievement, said they had not been able to find a higher record in the south.

The United States has but 500 head of cattle per 1,000 population while Uruguay has 5,000, analysis of world agricultural census statistics by D. S. Burch (lower right) and John Roberts (upper right) of the U. S. department of agriculture, reveals.

Famous Hunter Finding Wolves Scarce In Dakotas

De Smet, S. D. — (AP) — Charley Cummins and his eight famous dogs are back from their annual winter wolf hunt in Nebraska, Wyoming, and Colorado. They ranged farther than ever before and found less prey. Only 44 marauders of the farmers' sheep and cattle pastures and chicken pens fell in the quest, whereas 151 were killed a year ago.

Half of the dogs are registered greyhounds and half of them "cold bloods," best for wolf hunting. Cummins says that of the dog, trap, and poison methods, dogs are the most effective against wolves.

He made the trip this year in the powerful "hunt" car that has become a legend in the wolf country. The dogs were carried in special compartments. The only addition to his style was the use of a Browning automatic shotgun mounted on the left fender with trigger control on the dash. Nine shots were possible with the extra magazine attachment, the gun proving deadly at a distance within its range. At greater distances, the gun crippled the wolves and the dogs were released to finish the job.

An experienced trapper, the best in the region, said that Cummins and his dogs cut a swath wherever they hunted, and spoiled his trapping. In the sand brakes of Nebraska and the Colorado, where it had been thought the ideal protection would make it impossible to clean out the wolves, Cummins picked them off one by one as they came out for forage.

Inquisitive by nature, the wolves came out of hiding at the sound of Cummins' weird siren. As their heads showed in the brakes, Cummins fired and the dogs dashed to the fray.

The good price for skins and the increasing scarcity of wolves accounts in part for the smaller kill this year. Hunters are going out earlier in the season. Cummins says there are few young wolves left. For the most part he got tough old campaigners of many a year — and they were hard to run down. His best record was six in one day and nine in two days.

FARM HEADS HAIL REED-GEORGE ACT WITH ENTHUSIASM

Measure Will Bring Annual Appropriation of Education Up to $2,500,000

BY FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)
WASHINGTON — (AP) — "Vastly intensified agriculture, constantly profitable for a nation of technically trained men and women, are held by farm leaders as a result of the Reed-George act which in five years will bring the new annual appropriation for vocational education to a total of $2,500,000.

The act, which took its place among federal statutes during the last days of the Coolidge regime, is the nature of an amendment to the Smith-Hughes law, under which the government has been appropriating funds for vocational education since 1917. It adds $500,000 to the appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, and an additional $500,000 for each of the succeeding years.

By provisions of the Smith-Hughes law, funds appropriated by the federal government for vocational education are matched by the states on a 50-50 basis. There are at present 3,501 schools in the United States receiving federal aid for instruction in agriculture, including home economics. Of this number, 3,192 are attended by white students and 359 by negroes.

Expenditures of federal, state and local funds for vocational agricultural education in 1927 totaled $7,469,225, of which the federal government contributed $2,301,591, while the states and localities raised $4,667,703. The sum of $3,153,658 was raised by local taxation. The figures show that the states are more than matching federal funds.

GREEN MANURING IS RECOMMENDED BY FARM EXPERT

Practice Proves Most Satisfactory, Agriculturist Believes

BY W. F. WINSEY
The use of legumes and other crops as fertilizers of the soils is very successful in this section of the country and wherever it has been tried out. Victor G. Wenzel was started in Wisconsin and grain-raising was the leading farm industry, the farmers were raising large acreages of red clover and plowing the second crop under to prepare the soil for a crop of corn or crops of small grain. They adopted this expedient because they had no farm animals except a cow or two, a team and some hogs, and consequently a very limited amount of manure. At that time the farmers seeded most of their grain fields also with red clover and turned under all of the seeding not needed for hay or pasture. Those were the days in the state when red clover was a sturdy plant that could be depended to stand the severest winters.

Owing to soil depletion or to some other physical change since that time, red clover has become almost extinct in Wisconsin dairying and grain raising, and farmers began depending altogether on manure as a fertilizer of soils.

SOUGHT COMMERCIAL PRODUCTS

As decreasing yields of crops during the past few years convinced farmers of a shortage of plant food in the soil that could not be wiped out with the farm supply of manure they began using commercial fertilizers and reviving the almost forgotten practice of plowing under growing crops.

Along the line of reviving forgotten fertilizer practices, J. Sidney Cates says, "All evidence now points to the conclusion that the increasing recognition of the value of green manuring as the most handy tool for tinkering soils into high-yielding performance, is ushering in a veritable new era in American agriculture. If I were to draw a broad measure about soil fertility as measured by crop yield I would say that by and large it tied on more closely to the vegetable matter content of the land than to any other one factor."

"Green manuring is the one recognized and outstanding practical way of supplying most soils with what they most need. And the amazing thing developing from modern farm practice is that green manuring, which has long been preached as the only way out for the poor-landed farmer, is now coming to be recognized as having just as big economic application on the best farming areas of the country as on the marginal acre always near abandonment."

"In one test, one plot of land received thirty tons of manure, while an equal area alongside was seeded in the fall with a mixture of rye and various winter legumes, and the growth was plowed under in the spring at the time the manure was applied to the adjacent plot. Both plots of land were planted to sweet corn. This experiment was continued for several years, and each year the sweet corn yield ran higher where the rye and legume mixture was plowed under than where the tons of manure were added with out the green manure."

"Sudan grass is coming into general use as a summer cover and soil improving crop. A wide diversity of winter cover crops are being grown to plow under. In the list are rye, rye grown along with vetch and crimson clover, crimson clover alone, wheat alone and vetch alone."

PLEASED WITH PLAN

"So well has the plan justified itself that not long ago a leading dairyman volunteered the statement that since he had discovered the wonder working effect of a crop of rye and vetch plowed down, manure disposal on his place had become a problem. He had found that rye and vetch grown on the land and plowed down were more effective than a fifteen-ton spreading of manure, and the rye and vetch could be produced for a little more than half the cost of hauling the manure to any field located more than a quarter of a mile from the barn."

"When sweet clover gave up the realm of veldom and was taken into the domestic fold, a new epoch started in green manuring in America."

No longer will the 28-quart basket, constructed to look almost as large as the 32-quart container, appear on the market. It and a host of other baskets and berry boxes, all with a capacity slightly under the

ANNUAL MEETING OF CHEESE FACTORY HELD

Stephensville — Fred Messelung was chairman of the annual meeting held at the Kroeger factory Saturday afternoon. D. M. Breitrick, clerk read the following report for 1928: Total pounds of milk delivered by 38 patrons, 2,617,054, containing 94,734.8 pounds of butterfat. Patrons received $49,121.42 and manufacturer $2,860.64. Average test was 3.56; average price of butterfat .538; average price of cheese .2288; average price of 4 percent milk, including skim milk $2.15.

It was decided to continue skimming milk for the present. C. A. Schwab, Edward Komp and Anthony Bohman were appointed as an investigating committee to decide whether making cheese or skimming brought the most money to the patrons.

The super-qualities of this great soil-building crop are the things which have put owners of the already rich, black soil areas of the Upper Mississippi Valley states into the green manuring game.

"Abundant official figures throughout the central Corn Belt States give the yield increase resulting from a crop of sweet clover turned down as ranging all the way from thirteen to thirty bushels to the acre. The use of the crop has boosted sugar beets to the tune of four and five tons to the acre."

"The key trait of soil building discovered in sweet clover seems to be the ability to take raw materials from the soil as well as from the air. Once the clover has wrested phosphate or potash from soil compounds unavailable to other growing things, these materials are made available to all other crops when the sweet clover decays in the land."

"Agronomists are making headway in developing this new sweet cloverlike race of green manuring crops. A splendid beginning also has been made in developing separate strains of sweet clover itself which grow so happily on soils so acid as to discourage commercial sorts now on the market. I noticed the unlimited first growth on certain of these strains to be practically the same as on limed spots alongside, while the regular commercial seedlings almost ceased to make a showing on the ground beyond the line where lime was left off."

LAND INVENTORY IS EXPLAINED BY STATE FARM MAN

Means Taking Stock of National Resources, He Says at Conference

Duluth, Minn. — (AP) — The work of the Wisconsin land economic inventory was explained by Walter A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture, in an address Wednesday at the tri-county conference. The inventory is being conducted by the Wisconsin department of agriculture in cooperation with the college of agriculture and other state agencies, and will cover over a million acres in the northern part of the state. The inventory has been completed in Bayfield county.

"A land inventory," Mr. Duffy said, "means taking stock of our national resources, and when we add the word 'economic,' it means checking up on the financial effects of use and ownership from the point of view of a constructive utilization of the natural resources."

The inventory, according to Mr. Duffy, comprising the survey and analysis of all the factors which, if properly developed, will allow the northern section of Wisconsin to develop along balanced lines, and to make a real contribution to the economic and social life of the state as a whole.

Taking stock of soils of the area has for its object to show the types of soil, degrees of stoniness and the lay of the land. The cover of the land is mapped in order to find out how it is used from the agricultural forestry and recreational point of view.

Mr. Duffy said: "The program of the survey is directly related to the encouragement and development of industries as well as the utilization of the natural resources. In fact, such a utilization lays the groundwork for the development of a certain type of special industries, particularly those connected with reforestation, water powers and recreational uses."

"The development of such industries will bring about a certain amount of diversification in the economic life of the Upper Wisconsin, and thus enable it to contribute its part to the economic and social life of the entire state."

"The development of industries and the growth of industrial population will provide the farmer of that region with easily accessible markets and will afford to the working farmer employment at all seasons of the year."

Daily Lenten Thought

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

How anxious people are to claim or establish kinship with the great;
yet how neglectful of that greater kinship which James made possible for all!

Not long ago an expert genealogist told me that he finally had traced the lineage of a certain American millionaire back to the Mayflower.

Hitherto the assumption had been that this man of conspicuous business success had married into a family with a social prestige that he did not himself possess, and my genealogical friend suggested something of the satisfaction he was about to bring to this millionaire in making it clear that he had that distinction, greatest of all in American genealogy, of descent from the Mayflower company.

One may pardon the millionaire's interest in that fact. Human nature, despite its prosessed democracy, never becomes entirely scornful of such things.

But, how much greater is the privilege of kinship with Jesus of Nazaareth! Even the Mayflower company had its glory only because of faith in him and in his religion. It is this high inheritance of kinship with Jesus that he offers so simply to us all.

We recall his words when he was told that his mother and his brethren were standing outside. The response was: "Let Jesus stretch forth his hands toward his disciples and said, "Behold my mother and my brethren," adding, "For whosoever shall do the will of my Father, which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister and mother."

Edward P. Alesch left Tuesday afternoon for Madison where he will attend the directors meeting of the State Association of Real Estate Boards.

Sylvester Timmers was at Seymour Wednesday attending the funeral of a relative.

Foch Adapted Napoleon's Plans To Win World War

Paris.—The greatest military leader Europe has known since the days of Napoleon—
That, probably, will be history's verdict on Ferdinand Foch, marshal of France, commander of the allied armies in 1918, and victor in the greatest battle ever fought on earth.
In the dark days of the great German offensive in 1918, when French and British were in retreat and Americans were just beginning to take up their share of the burden, the allied leaders were forced to realize that the war was lost unless the supreme command of all the armies in France were vested in one man. Without dissent, they chose Foch. Before the year was out
Foch proved they had chosen wisely.

"Find the weak point of your enemy and strike him there," was Foch's pet maxim. It was supplimentary to another.

"If he has no weak point—make one!"
With those two maxims to guide him, Foch assumed the high command. Sir Douglas Haig offered him the British army; General John J. Pershing assured him that the American army was his. For the first time all the allied forces on the western front fought as a unit. The result was victory.

A HUMAN BEING
As often happens, however, Foch himself tended to remain something of an abstraction in the eyes of many citizens of the allied nations. He was a famous name, a decorated warrior —but few felt that he was a flesh-and-blood man, as well. Back of the fame and the greatness, however, there stood a generous, friendly human being, with the capacity for inspiring great friendship among his reputation in the army, however, and two of his books—"Principles of War" and "Conduct of War"—were widely read in military circles.

Napoleon had been his model, and his friends said that he had studied each of Napoleon's campaigns without ceasing, for years, in order to perfect his knowledge of strategy.
Like Napoleon, he was a great believer in the importance of the artillery arm—a fact which stood in his favor in the World War, where artillery was more important than ever before.

After hostilities began Foch was not long in showing his capabilities. His army corps was in the center of the French line during the first great German drive on Paris, and it was probably Foch as much as Joffre who saved Paris.
Foch bore the brunt of the deperate German attack that followed Joffre's flank attack. He waited, tensely, for the enemy to betray that weak spot that his maxim called for. Eventually he saw it; the German line had been stretched over-thin in one spot, and he sent his famous message to Joffre:

GERMANS FALL BACK
"My right has been driven in, my left has been driven in—therefore with all that I have left I will attack in the center."

Foch attacked, and the Germans fell back.
Six weeks later, at the head of a mixed army of French, British and Belgian troops, Foch again defeated the Germans in the battle that was fought for the champion ports, Ypres and Calais. This victory won him the Order of the Bath from King George of England, and moved Joffre to promote him the ablest strategist in Europe.

Later Foch took an Anglo-French army to Italy to bolster up the Italian line at a moment when the Austrians were breaking through.
Then he returned to France, eventually to rise to the high command of the allied armies in 1918. He was shaken, however, all armies struck at once. The British attacked in Flanders, the French along the Somme, and the Americans in the Argonne. Before these simultaneous blows the German line crumbled.

and direct the strategy that brought the war to a victorious conclusion.
Once Foch took the high command the German cause was lost.
The German had repeatedly faced heavy offensives on the western front before, but the efforts had never been co-ordinated properly and had not, in consequence, seri-

A Battle Creek physician says:
"Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Or-

Two Appleton Players On All-Conference Cage Team

Berg And Kunitz Picked For First Team Positions

POST-CRESCENT ALL-CONFERENCE TEAMS
FIRST TEAM Forward... Berg, Appleton. Guard... Kunitz, Appleton.
SECOND TEAM Forward... Meyers, E. Green Bay. Guard... Schaefer, Appleton.

MUCH ADD ABOUT SEVERAL THINGS
By The City Editor

The members of the second squad are scattered about a bit more, although four of the men come from the Appleton high school team, and a member of the Oshkosh high school team have been picked for places on the Post-Crescent all-valley basketball team.

The choice of Kunitz for a first team guard is paying tribute to a veteran performer with Jake Schaefer, the best number of points. Sports writers who so far have picked teams have neglected to mention the two youngsters and we believe they've done a great injustice. Schaefer is mentioned for an all-conference selection on the second five. Neither of the Oshkosh players made a great number of baskets this season but they didn't have to score many points when they were holding other teams from counting. The Oshkosh lost three valley conference games this season, two by one point and one by three points. If that isn't a credit to the guards, what is.

The center of the first team is Gorychka, Manitowoc's scoring ace who with Kunitz, the other forward, scores. Both are tall, rangy players who can reek havoc under an opponent's basket on follow-ups. Gorychka also had the edge on jumps against any center in the top.

If anyone can find a "hotter" combination than that of Berg and Kunitz, it is Gorychka and the writer wants to know where it is. An all-valley team that doesn't have the three on it isn't a valley team.

CONTINUE BILLIARD MEETS IN MILWAUKEE
Wednesday's Games Set Record for Speed and Slowness

Milwaukee —(P)— Wednesday's day in the national amateur 15.2 billiard championships, which were staged at the Milwaukee Athletic Club, presented a study in contrasts.

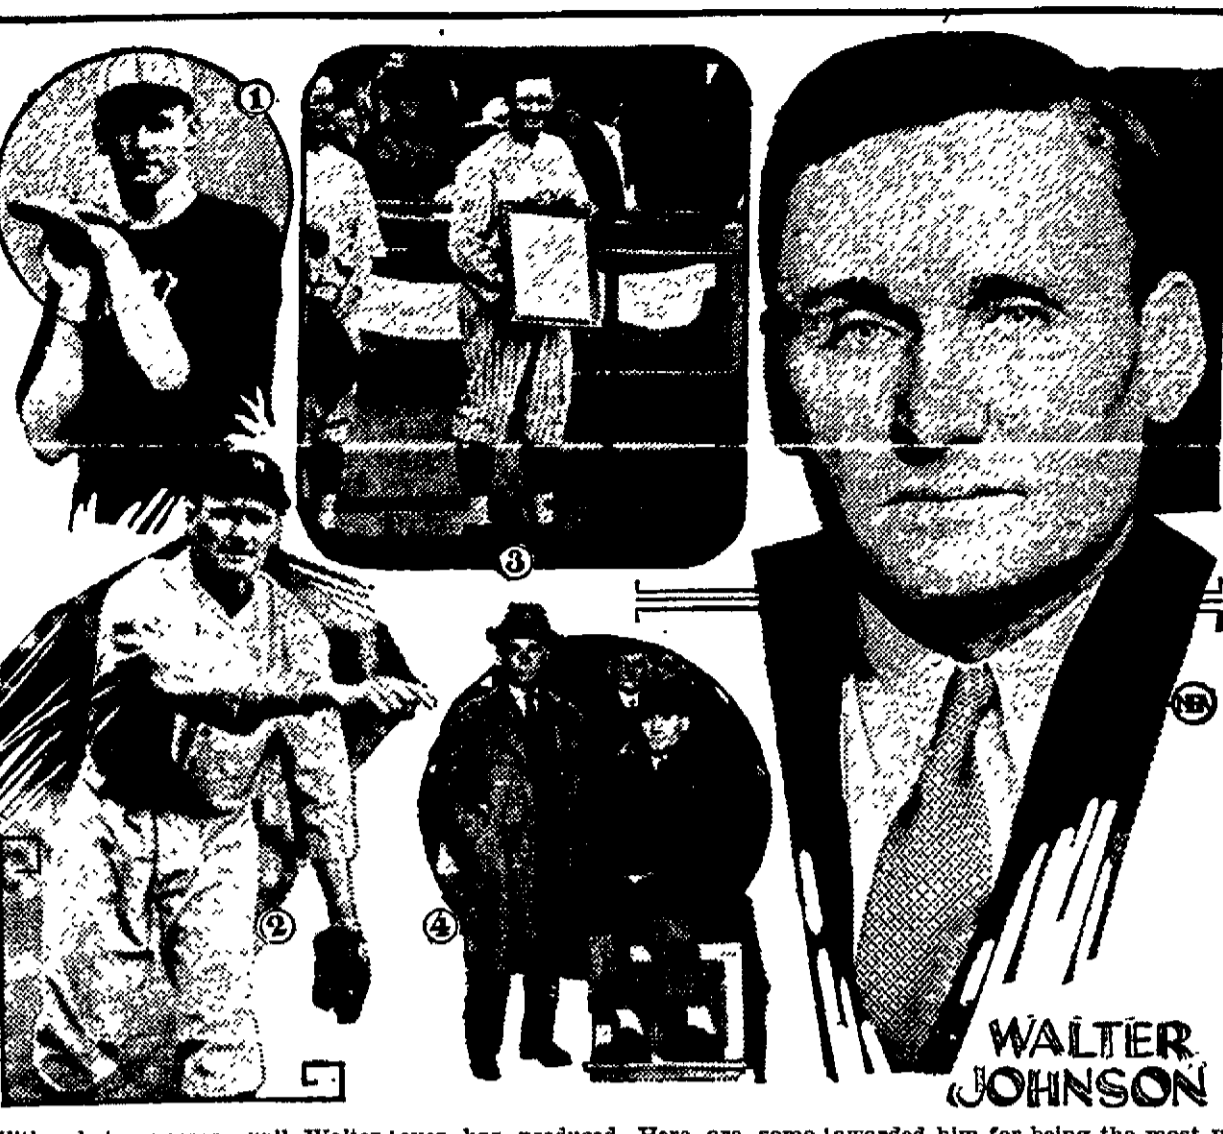

Percy Collins of the Illinois Athletic Club, Chicago, the defending champion, took just 11 innings to beat M. P. McClure of Pittsburgh, 6-141. As a matter of fact, he actually needed only eight of his turns at the table to amass his score. He averaged 27.3-11 with a high run of 100 and two others of 50 or more.

The Antithesis to this came in the 15-minute, 50 inning game in which Ray Fessenden of Madison topped Al Elmslie of Milwaukee out of the undefeated class with a score of 300-254. Fessenden's average run was 6; his high was 38.

W. Waigren, Seattle, the Pacific Coast champ, managed to stay in the undefeated class along with Elmslie by defeating McClure 200-253 in a 39 inning game.

Arie Schaap, St. Louis, who tied for the western crown at the Missouri State title, winning the Missouri State title, defeated Harry Point, the Brooklyn entry 300-143 in 24 innings.

Walter Johnson Takes Over Management of Senators

With such success will Walter Johnson meet as manager of the Washington Senators? This is one of the big questions of the coming season with hundreds of thousands of fans who regard Johnson as one of the most lovable characters and one of the greatest pitchers the game ever has produced. Here are some highlights in Johnson's career: No. 1 shows him as he looked when he started his major league career in 1907; No. 2 shows Old Barney at the height of his pitching career; No. 3 shows him holding the diploma awarded him for being the most valuable player in the American League in 1924; No. 4 pictures Johnson, with Clark Griffith, left, during his illness in 1923 that threatened his baseball career, and, at the right, a closeup of Johnson today.

Connie Mack Deserves Credit For A's Success

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1929

PORT MYERS, FLA.—May very optimistic things have been said about the Athletics. Their boss Connie Mack, is not optimistic. He has reason.

His team is good—it is much the same team as that in 1928. Some people may think that it is a better team. But is it?

It is beginning to be conceded that Ossie Orwell is an ambitious young man who is not the first baseman that it was thought he would be. He does not measure up to the big league specifications. That is hardly number one. If the Athletics could have made a deal with Toronto for Dale Alexander, he would have been taken to play first base for the Athletics. But Detroit had the inside done and got him.

The Athletics might have paid as much as $75,000 for Alexander and judging by player valuations on what they are expected to produce he would have been worth it. This young giant can hit as far or farther than Babe Ruth and is a future prospect worth $10,000, a season if he matures as he should. He may not hit home runs like Ruth but he has more power in his shoulders and back than Ruth and he is going to play baseball when Ruth's legs have scrapped him.

That much for first base on the Athletics. The first baseman seems to be Jimmy Fox, who is no mean player himself but who is not playing baseball this spring as he did in 1928. That is so evident that nobody is being fooled. He can get into his stride.

If Fox plays first base, Dykes is left to play third base. True there is Hale, but Hale has not big enough hands for a third baseman and padded gloves do not seem to help him.

Pitchers of any club are an unknown quantity until they have been tried. One may say that a team has a great pitching staff and be quite right in the use of words but sometimes that great staff dwindles down to nothing.

When pitchers begin to get old no one is ever quite sure how they will perform. Jack Quinn, an Athletic moundsman, seems to be ageless. Maybe the bench warming he is doing in Florida may endow him with some of the qualities claimed for Ponce de Leon's famed spring.

On for the Athletics pitchers are good and Connie Mack, who never played a wrong card in his life in his baseball relations, is all fused up about Wingard, who has been declared a free agent by Judge Landis.

"I did not do a wrong thing in making that deal," said Mack. "I can not understand it."

The problem that is facing Mack is to get his team tuned up to the pitch that it was last season and when people say that the Athletics will run away with the race in conjunction with the Yankees, they are not conversant with the fact that this is to be an entirely different race from that of 1928 and that out west there are two baseball clubs—one of them being Detroit—which are up to the conditions that prevailed last year.

The Athletics will not have a run-away race with the Yankees. The Athletics have their team of 1928 plus one year of age. Perhaps for some of them that year has been beneficial. But others it may not have been. But the team, to do as well this year as it did last year, must be aroused until it is thoroughly mad and it is not mad to date.

The success of the team is 1928 has not exactly gone to the heads of the players but it has changed the mental attitude of some. The team finished the season thinking it should have defeated the Yankees and the players went home with exalted opinions as to their personal baseball worth. Mickey Cochrane tried to be an actor and folks who saw him wished they had taken up a contribution to keep him off the stage.

The Athletics are not that kind of a show team. They are a steady grinding team that can wear some other team down, or two or three teams.

Not consorvative, steady man who is their teacher does for them. A less patient man long ago would have given up some of them, but he has nursed them and has made stars of this and that and has made stars of three or four players who could have been "ranned" by less persistent managers.

The Athletics are not going to run away with the pennant this year. They should be in the thick of the fight all of the time, but some of them had better head what the old boy says—the old boy who stands out and waves his sore card, beckoning here and there to get them where they belong—because they would not have been within three or four games of the pennant in 1928 had it not been for him.

SELL-OUT FIGHTS SHOW BOXING GAME STILL IS HEALTHY

No Seats Left in Garden for Miller - MacLarin Battle Friday

BY JOHN J. ROMANO
Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—That boxing is in a healthy state and thriving despite the lack of outstanding contenders for various titles is best evidenced in the erection of stadiums seating upwards of twenty-five thousand spectators in principal cities throughout the country.

Madison Square Garden of this city goes on record with the unbelievable demand for tickets for the Jimmy McLarin-Ray Miller contest to be held this Friday evening. The garden can house twenty thousand fans and ordinarily this would be sufficient to hold the fans who would want to see an ordinary contest. The return duel between Miller and McLarin is no ordinary affair. Miller holds a knockout over the hard-punching Belfast wizard and the fans have piled in so greatly that the tickets have been taken off sale and will only be allotted by mail order.

Paddy Harmon reports an advance sale of seventy five thousand dollars for the triple attraction he is putting on at the Chicago stadium on the twenty-eighth. Tommy Loughran and Mickey Walker, Tuffy Griffiths and Leo Lomski with Tony Canzoneri and Honey Boy Flanagan rounding out his stellar attractions has taken the mid-west by storm.

Wrigley field at Los Angeles, California, will be sold out for the Ace-Huddins-Armand Emanuel battle set for the early part of next month. Both Huddins and the coast bar-rister-scraper are prime favorites in the sunshine city and they are sure to pack the stadium.

Huddins held Mickey Walker to a close battle last year and Emanuel gave Loughran a merry time of it for ten rounds last month. Both are contenders for the title in their respective classes.

Jess MacMahon, former match-maker for Madison Square Garden, will open the doors of his new club, seating thirty-two thousand, May 3rd, when he offers Kid Chocolate, the Cuban colored sensation, in a 15-round battle with Bud Taylor, whose battle with Al Singer last Friday's still the topic of heated conversation.

Association Five Overcomes Lead and Wins in Last Minute, 19-18

Playing a strong defensive game during the second half and counting just enough points to overcome a lead, Appleton Y. M. C. A. basketball team beat the Oshkosh Junior Association of Commerce five Wednesday night in the association gym. The final score was 19 to 18.

Led by Henkel, center, Oshkosh took an early lead in the first period and ran the score 17 and 10 in their favor. Henkel counted four field goals for his team, Sperring, Muller and Olson one each. The Y. M. C. A. points were garnered by Wolfe, Furninger and Monteth.

In the second half the invaders were able to count but a lone free throw while the association team counted nine points. Delforge making the winning basket a minute before the final whistle. Appleton scores in the period were divided between Delforge with two baskets, Monteth and Stevens one each and Notches with a free throw.

Question—Will Tilden ever play high class tennis again?
Answer—Undoubtedly he will, but hardly good enough to stop the French stars in a tournament where he has to play hard tennis day after day.

Question—Batter knocks a long fly to right field. A bystander catches the ball on the first bounce and tosses it to the right fielder. Umpire did not declare block ball or time. Right fielder throws ball to left inn field bleachers. Pitcher recovers ball and touches batter on the way home from third base. Umpire first called batter out then on protest allowed the run. What is the right decision?
Answer—The umpire blundered. The ball was blocked. The minute it was touched by an outsider and was not in play again until the pitcher had it in his position.

Huron, S. D.—Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D. knocked out Jose Gonzalez, Cuba (2). Eddie Danielson, Huron, outpointed Kid Lester, Omaha (4).

Training Camp Gossip

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—(P)—The Cleveland Indians took the New Orleans Pelicans in another of their practice games Wednesday, 4 to 2.

Clearwater, Fla.—(P)—Brooklyn's Robins have started the 1929 baseball season where they left off in 1928—with defeat staring them in the face. The Robins thought they had won their first exhibition of the year Wednesday until the eighth inning but the Phillies came along then to score five runs and won, 6 to 5.

Los Angeles—(P)—The weak exhibition presented by the Detroit Tigers against Jack Dempsey's Chicago Cubs Wednesday did nothing to make Manager Stanley Harris happy but he planned to send the same lineup against the National leaguers Thursday. The Cubs laced Detroit, 13 to 2.

Washington—(P)—Pitchers in the Tampa, Florida, training camp of the Washington Nationals have progressed to a stage where Manager Johnson feels that their duty on the mound can be extended safely and Thursday found only Weaver and Brown in the line-up to face Brooklyn at Clearwater.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(P)—Three successive victories proved too much for the St. Louis Browns Wednesday and they fell before the Columbus association club 3 to 2.

Avon Park, Fla.—(P)—Fred Haney, coming up from Indianapolis, is to play third base for the St. Louis Cardinals in the two game series against the Philadelphia Athletics at Miami Saturday and Sunday. Manager Billy Southworth has indicated.

Dallas, Tex.—(P)—Three White Sox regulars, Johnny Kerr, Willie Kamm and Art Shires, are on the casualty list with bruises and aching limbs.

COMPLETE TOURNAMENT FOR H. S. SECOND TEAMS
The team representing Wausau in Coach Leland Delforge's second team tournament won the title Wednesday night by defeating Detroit 19 and 10. The battle for third place in the tourney went to the team representing Superior when it beat Neenah 26 and 24. The game was one of the best of the tourney and was not decided until the last minute.

MOVE STARTED TO RENAME CHERRY-ST

Council Recommends That Change Be Made in Street Ordinance

First steps toward changing the name of Cherry-st to Memorial drive were taken at a meeting of the common council Wednesday night when the aldermen unanimously approved a measure instructing that in the revision of the street ordinance, the proposed change be carried out. The suggestion was brought about by the presentation of a petition from 25 property owners on the street by L. Hugo Keller, who represented the American legion. Mr. Keller explained that when the bridge across the Fox river was built it was named Soldiers and Sailors Memorial bridge but that the name is being lost because the bridge is coming to be known as Cherry-st bridge.

While the council approved the change Wednesday night their action is not yet final as an ordinance will have to be prepared, and a public hearing on the matter held before final action can be taken. Mr. Keller told the aldermen of the plan of the legion to beautify the boulevard south of the bridge and the city engineer was instructed to draw plans for widening drives, installing curbs, and cutting through new streets.

Answer the Call to Color

SPEED ENAMEL

Dries Quickly—and How!

SPEED ENAMEL more than meets the present day demand for color in the home. It comes in a variety of colors which may be intermixed to produce an endless diversity of delightful tints and shades.

With SPEED ENAMEL no piece of furniture, no article of decoration, need escape the cheer of colorful dress—for SPEED ENAMEL can be used on any paintable surface. Floors, woodwork and walls as well as furniture, toys, smokers, cabinets, mail boxes, bird cages, picture frames, swings and garden furniture, can be effectively decorated or refinished with SPEED ENAMEL.

Its uses are practically unlimited and its application is so simple that even the "first time" amateur can use SPEED ENAMEL successfully. It has no offensive odor. Two coats can be applied in one day. It dries hard overnight to a rich furniture finish luster. Yet it sets slowly enough to permit brushing over the wet surface to smooth out imperfections. May be polished like lacquer.

Use this new colorful, wonder-finish for your next decorating job

Here are the very best quality tires that the world's largest rubber company—with all its vast resources—can produce at anywhere near these low prices.

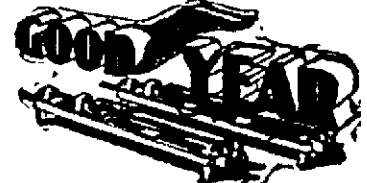

Why try to "beat" such values? Folks, it can't be done. Stop and think. Goodyear builds MANY MILLIONS MORE tires than anybody else. Who, then, could hope to EQUAL the values Goodyear gives you?

Don't be bunked by fancy claims. Remember the FACTS.

These new improved Goodyear Pathfinders out-class for looks, quality, wear and non-skid traction, everything else in the low-price field. Come in and lift one, bounce it, feel the depth of its tough new, non-skid tread. Admire its good looks. Goodyear Pathfinders of 1928 were great bargains, but you'll agree that these new improved 1929 ones are still farther ahead of competition.

Take advantage of our special low introductory prices to replace your dangerous, troublesome tires now! Never before have REAL Goodyears of such high quality been sold so cheap. Every tire guaranteed for life—by Goodyear—against any and all defects. No time or mileage limits! Come in and get yours—no waiting, no charge for mounting.

Made of SUPERTWIST—Goodyear's Patented "Shock-Absorbing" Cord

Come in and we'll prove why the carcass of a Goodyear Tire has no equal for endurance! On our cord-testing machine, see SUPERTWIST (Goodyear's patented cord) stretched side-by-side with regular standard cord. See how SUPERTWIST stretches and recovers (to absorb ordinary road shocks) while the other cord STAYS STRETCHED! See how SUPERTWIST stretches up to 60% farther before it breaks (to stand severe road shocks). Goodyear Pathfinders have a SUPERTWIST carcass!

THIS HAS HAPPENED

RUTH LESTER, secretary, finds the body of her employer, "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, Monday morning sprawled beneath the airshaft window of his private office. He was shot some time between one and four Saturday afternoon.

McMann, detective sergeant, questions the following suspects: RUTH, MRS. BORDEN, Borden's estranged wife and mother of his two children, who admits calling Saturday afternoon; RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, who says she called on Borden Saturday afternoon to get the fare half of a $300 bill he promised her; JACK HAYWARD, Ruth's fiancé, whose office is across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

Hayward says he returned to the seventh floor Saturday to get his and Ruth's matinee tickets left on his desk. Jack's guilt seems emphasized by the testimony of MICKY MORAN and OTTO PFLUGER, elevator boys and of BILL COWAN, Jack's friend, who says he heard Jack threaten Borden's life.

LETTY MILLER, woman who cleaned Jack's offices, says she was delayed in her Saturday cleaning by the return of Jack to his office and did not see Jack leave. McMann received a wire from ADAMS, one of Borden's stock salesmen, giving his alibi. Ruth tries to defend Jack to McMann who seems convinced of her fiancé's guilt. McMann gruffly extends his hand and says significantly: "Take a look at this."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

Ruth Lester's hand crept out, but her cringing flesh rebelled. She could not force her fingers to close upon the small, flattened-out lead bullet which lay upon the palm of Detective McMann's big hand.

"The bullet which killed — Mr. Borden?" she gasped. "But I — don't understand. . . . It's flat."

"Yes, it's flat," McMann agreed, with dreadful significance. "And it's not the bullet which killed Borden. It's—the bullet he fired in defense of his life—but just an instant too late."

Ruth shrank into her chair. "Please tell me. I don't understand."

McMann's hard gray eyes dropped. "Detective Carlson found this bullet while you were out to lunch with Hayward. He found it on that strip of cement seven flights below," and McMann pointed to the window overlooking the airshaft. "And after Carlson found this, the detective returned the flattened bullet to his pocket and rose from Borden's desk — 'I found something else. Come here!'"

Ruth followed him jerkily, on ice-cold feet, to the window. Two pigeons, strutting about on the window ledge, took flight, but she scarcely saw them. Her wide, frightened eyes followed the direction of McMann's pointing finger — a spot in the brick wall beside Jack Hayward's window.

"See?" McMann persisted, but without triumph. "A new scar in one of those old bricks. I've examined it—and it's new all right. That is where this bullet struck—harmlessly. It was aimed at Harry Borden's murderer, who stood in Jack Hayward's window, but the finger which pulled the trigger was that of a man mortally wounded—or the shot would not have gone so wide of its mark. Do you understand now, Miss Lester?"

Ruth raised her trembling hands to her face, pressed her eye finger-tips into her throbbing temples. "No! No!" she cried. "I don't understand! All I know is—the person at whom that shot was fired was not Jack Hayward!"

McMann turned from the window, strode to Borden's desk, took his seat again. Ruth followed unsteadily, her knees so weak with fright that they could scarcely support her small body.

"What became of your pistol, which we know from fingerprint evidence that Borden had secured after you left Saturday, bothered me considerably until this evidence turned up," McMann said slowly. "I believe that Borden was shot as he stood against that open window, that as he fell, mortally wounded, his pistol—or rather, your pistol—clattered out of his hands to the cement below. His murderer retrieved it, disposed of it along with the weapon with which he had killed Harry Borden."

"Retrieved it?" Ruth cried, suddenly electrified. "How? How? If you mean Jack Hayward when you say 'his murderer,' how could Jack have possibly retrieved my pistol on Saturday? Otto Pfluger, the elevator operator on Jack's corridor, has told you that Jack descended in his car, not more than 10 minutes after Otto had taken him up. There is no way of entering that court below except through a basement door. I know, because I once dropped my handbag out of that window and suits, especially in sensational cases like the murder of "Handsome Harry" Borden. His motto seemed to be "Arrest someone—anybody—and find out the truth later." In this particular case, Jack Hayward would undoubtedly be the victim of Commissioner Weeks' avid appetite for newspaper praise.

Fifteen minutes later, as she sat at her desk, trying to concentrate upon the thick sheet of correspondence addressed to a man who would never read it, Police Commissioner Weeks arrived.

Ruth knew the commissioner personally. In the old days, before her father's death, Weeks had occasionally dined with the famous criminal lawyer, Colby Lester. She rose and faced the tall, lean, distinguished-looking man who had barked out a curt greeting to Detective Birdwell.

"How do you do, Mr. Weeks?" she faltered, trying to make her trembling lips smile naturally. "I wonder if you remember me?"

Light sprang into Commissioner Weeks' cold eyes; a broad smile flashed suddenly beneath his stubby white mustache. "Remember you, child?" he exclaimed cordially, taking her cold little hand in both his. "Who could forget your pretty face? You're Colby Lester's daughter, of course. And while I'm mighty sorry that you're dragged into this miserable business, I'm glad to see you again. How are you, my dear?"

"Well—and very happy," Ruth answered steadily. "You see, Mr. Weeks, I'm engaged to be married to a man I love with all my heart—Mr. John C. Hayward. I'm going to invite you to my wedding."

"Hayward?" the commissioner repeated, his eyes going cold and pale again. "Isn't that the young man —? Oh, hello, McMann! I'm renewing an old friendship with little Ruth Lester."

Ruth sank slowly into her chair as the two men—the detective sergeant in charge of the investigation into the murder of Henry P. Borden and Police Commissioner Weeks—passed into Borden's private office and closed the door behind them. Had she helped or injured Jack's chances by her desperate, indirect appeal to a man who had never been known to permit friendship to interfere with the performance of his duty? Well—and her body sagged tiredly—she had done her best for Jack.

The next hour was a nightmare of suspense for Ruth Lester. From five until six o'clock the rumble of voices, sometimes loud, the words almost intelligible, sometimes low and earnest, came to the girl through the closed door. There were frequent interruptions, when Birdwell received reports from headquarters or other detectives working on the case, which he had to relay to his superiors' closeted in Borden's private office. From these one-sided telephone conversations which Birdwell carried on at Benny Smith's desk, Ruth learned that Cleo Gilman had not yet been found, that no information as to the present whereabouts of Jake Bailey, the murdered man's bodyguard, that Benny Smith, permitted to return to his home, followed by a detective, was so ill that a doctor's car had been parked before his home for more than an hour.

At six o'clock came the order which Ruth had been expecting and dreading. McMann, looking pale and harassed, opened the door and spoke sharply to Birdwell: "Get Hayward—and Rita Dubois. Rita's in Covey's charge, down the hall. We'll have Hayward in first. Miss Lester will answer the phone if it rings while you're gone."

The phone didn't ring during the detective's absence. Ruth, standing trembling beside it, wished it would—that something would happen to make those long minutes shorter. At last the door opened and Jack Hayward pushed in ahead of Birdwell.

Ruth's anxious, loving eyes devoured him. He had evidently just brushed his hair, for the deep waves in it gleamed wetly in the electric light. Not the act of a nervous or a frightened or a guilty man. . . . And his bronze-brown eyes, wide open, candid, clear, smiled at her. . . . They both forgot Detective Birdwell as they moved toward each other, their arms outstretched. They did not even realize that the detective had considerably turned his back.

"Poor little darling," Jack murmured.

Ruth wanted to warn him that arrest lay before him, to tell him of the flattened bullet found in the court below his window, but he stopped her first words by laying his lips against hers. That kiss, which Ruth wanted desperately to prolong forever, lest the next time their lips met it should be from between prison bars, lasted until Detective Birdwell slowly crossed the room and opened the door into the private office.

Peculiar actions from Jack Hayward that surprise Ruth. In the next chapter.

When the chair on which she was standing collapsed, five ambulance men were required to carry Florence Hatchman, weighing nearly 300 pounds, from her home to the hospital in London recently.

Coughs...

PERTUSSIN is made by a special (Taechnor) process to relieve coughs quickly by removing the immediate cause. This cause usually is accumulated mucus, dust, inflammation or irritation. PERTUSSIN, by helping nature to expel the phlegm, and by soothing the irritation, quiets the cough. It is entirely free from harmful drugs. That is why Doctors have prescribed it for a quarter of a century. At all drug stores.

IRENE SIMONS
"Sweetest Baby in Wisconsin"

For over fifty years, mothers, like this well-known Wisconsin woman, have been telling each other about California Fig Syrup, and leading physicians have been endorsing it. Nothing else acts so gently and harmlessly to propel the souring waste from the delicate system of babies and children, which, when allowed to remain, keeps them cross, feverish, illious, headachy, weak, with coated tongue, bad breath, broken-out skin, no appetite or energy. Its rich, fruity goodness helps to give tone and strength to their little stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. It helps to build up and strengthen them—makes them active and happy.

"I have used California Fig Syrup with my little daughter since early babyhood," says Mrs. E. P. Simons, 332 Thirty-sixth St., Milwaukee. "Whenever she has a cold, is the least bit constipated or doesn't seem just right I always give her a little, and it fixes her up quick. She's the picture of health, now, and friends say she's the sweetest baby in Wisconsin. She has never had a serious illness and I give California Fig Syrup full credit for it."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. See that the carton bears the word "California."

TAMMANY MEMBERS DIDN'T LIKE WAY CAMPAIGN WAS RUN

Spent $4,539,000 and Workers Only Got Sore Feet Waiting for Jobs

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON

Copyright, 1929, Consolidated Press Association. New York—Tammany hall, at least the old-fashioned, rock-ribbed part of it, didn't like the way the Democrats ran this last presidential campaign. National headquarters spent $4,539,000 and all the veteran Tammany workers got was sore feet, waiting around for jobs.

John J. Raskob's staffed the headquarters with smart young outsiders who smoked English pipes, and Tammany's old heart was broken to see so many good jobs go to amateur politicians.

This is one of the major irritations which today find Tammany leaders, former Governor Smith and Mayor Walker heading toward a collision, and a general rank and file distance throughout the organization which may result in the election of a Republican mayor next November.

Tammany has never defended itself against the charge that its support of Alfred E. Smith was, to say the most, little more than perfunctory. Mr. Smith was never a district leader and never reached quite that degree of orthodoxy which the inner thrones and dominions of Tammany demand. Mayor Walker, on the other hand, has succumbed to no heresies and, in spite of some rather rough going during the last few months, holds the old line Tammany support in fee simple.

WALKER ON CARPET
Soon after the beginning of Mayor Walker's incumbency, Governor Smith, as the state leader of the Democratic party, and incidentally as one who happened to be packing a big stick, began to show concern over Mr. Walker's light hearted dalliance with public affairs, and intimated something of the kind to the mayor. One old Tammany district leader put it differently.

"Al tore Jimmy's hide off with a shovel," said this observer, speaking more in the vein of the old Tammany which has little use for euphemisms. No one can say whether it was as bad as all that, but the fact that all that Mr. Smith got out of Tammany, in the presidential campaign, was a national lambasting because of his Tammany background. After the Triangle Shirt Waist factory fire, eleven years ago, which raised new social issues, Assemblyman Al Smith was surrounded by a group of progressives who led him far afield from old pastures of New York machine politics. Gradually affiliating with such political leaders as Franklin Roosevelt, Nathan Strauss, Col. Herbert H. Lehman and Mrs. Caroline O'Day he became governor and built a state organization less amenable to Tammany control than any other.

The divergency of the roads has a long way back and the old Tammany wrecking crew is just now preparing to heave overboard what is left of the "New Tammany," which, say what you will, rounded up 15,000,000 votes for its candidate.

SMITH ABDICATES
While Mr. Smith gracefully abdicated state and national leadership, the latter has quite patiently attempted to carry on with Mr. Smith left off, in maintaining a state organization conformable to national party demands and free from the domination of the more insular elements of Tammany leadership. His appointment of Edward F. Flynn as secretary of state set Tammany to sharpening its claws. Mr. Flynn, who is the Democratic county chairman of the Bronx never was a journeyman Tammany worker and there was further aggravation in the fact that he came from the Bronx. The suburban drift is sapping population out of Manhattan island and fattening the outlying boroughs, which makes the organization extremely sensitive, with the borough of Queens already lost to the enemy on account of the population shift.

If Alfred E. Smith's past achievements and affiliations are denoted the "progressive" movement in the New York democracy, the present issue is between the progressives and the stand-pat wing of the organization, who look wistfully back to the autocratic rule of such leaders as Charles F. Murphy, "The MacManus," Big Tim Sullivan, and Richard Croker.

OLVANY WITH SMITH
George W. O'Leary, whose retirement leaves the organization leaderless, for the present, was personally and politically in close accord with Governor Smith. Surrogate James A. Foley, who is somewhat of a political maverick, plays in his own hand, is considered a strong possibility for the new leadership, as a compromise choice, to enable the organization to reunite its opposed forces in time for the fall election.

The Tammany crisis has galvanized Mayor Walker into alert activity.

UNSIGHTLY SKIN ERUPTIONS
Gone In Three Days

Those bad looking red eruptions of the skin that humiliate you and keep you from social gatherings—what are you going to do about them?

If you are wise and want to get rid of them so quickly that you will be astonished you'll get a 35 cent box of Peter's Ointment today and let its mighty healing power make you joyfully happy in just a few days.

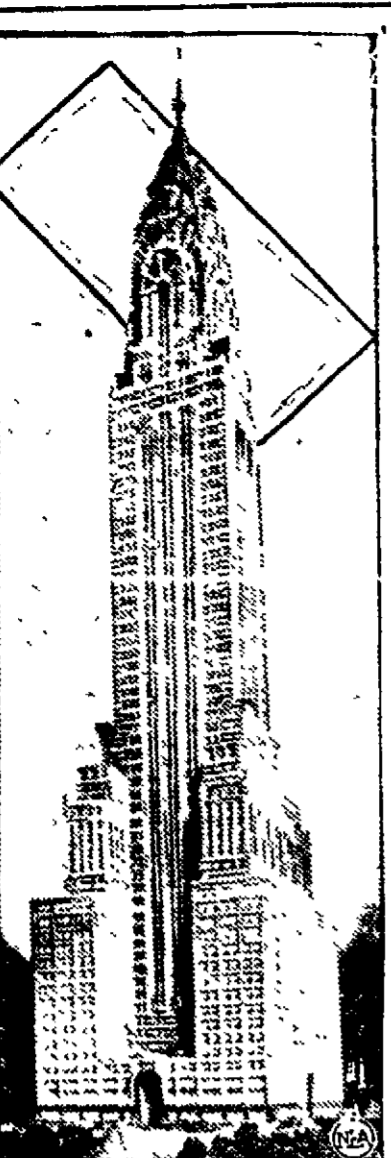

You'll praise it to your friends ever after, for it surely does heal and leave the skin clear, healthy and good to look upon.

And here's something more that a multitude of Peter's Ointment friends know—make a note of it.

This good old remedy is just as healing for eczema, pimples, rashes and ulcers as it is for skin eruptions and if you doubt it ask any broad minded druggist.

Keep it in the house for burns and scalds, bruises, scratches, itching skin, chafing and like ailments, adv.

It's Highest

When more skies are scraped, this skyscraper will scrape them. For the new 68-story Chrysler Building, soon to tower on the New York skyline, will be the very tallest in the world—809 feet high and seventeen feet higher than the famous Woolworth Building. It will cost $15,000,000 to build it.

WORKED BOTH WAYS
Waterloo, N. Y.—A recent verdict returned by a jury here was in favor of both the plaintiff and defendant. Harvey Robenolt, the plaintiff, received $175, full amount claimed in a building contract suit, and Jane Pontius, the defendant, received $50 of a $250 counter suit.

He is urging the immediate selection of a new leader and is revealing the latent energy and adroitness which have made his political career.

It is expected that Alfred E. Smith, Edward F. Flynn and George W. O'Leary will unite in putting forward a candidate against Mayor Walker. In the meantime, the vociferous John F. Hyland, former mayor, is a disturbing and ineluctable element in this confused situation.

TO RELIEVE INDIGESTION

You sit down to enjoy a good meal only to leave the table and suffer. But why suffer? Dreco, an unusual combination of good old fashioned herb and plant juices, will relieve the indigestion and prevent its return.

Mr. John Formelle, Polonia, near Stevens Point, Wis., says: "Attacks of indigestion were often so severe I'd be forced to quit work. Cramps, shortness of breath, nausea and constipation would follow. Dreco relieved these almost immediately. I can eat anything without suffering later, thanks to Dreco."

Lac View Desert Holds Some Large Muskellunge

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

In most waters of Wisconsin I have found the fishing better during the early and late periods of the season. There are some lakes, however, that produce just as good results during the "dog-days" of mid-summer as at any other time. This is due, I believe, to the low temperature of the water caused by the many bottom springs that feed the lake; and in some cases to the fact that the lakes are deep.

One of such bodies of water that I have in mind is Lac View Desert, in the northeastern part of Vilas co. This name is pronounced "Vide-hartly" in Wisconsin and partly in Michigan. It is deep in places and also largely spring fed. The water in it is pure and cold.

From this lake the Wisconsin river has its source. Emerging a shallow stream of twenty feet in width, the river gathers volume until it becomes the largest one in the state.

It is claimed there are no muskies in any Wisconsin waters that are not connected with the Mississippi river. Lac View Desert, being directly connected, contains some fine specimens of this "tiger of the fresh water." To reach there, drive to Eagle River. From there on every mile will be found interesting. The constantly changing panorama of woods and waters will long be remembered by anyone making the drive. Of the twelve hundred charted lakes in Vilas co. Lac View is the largest and you find along its shore as you drive to View Desert. Others will greet you from both sides of the highway, small, medium and large and of all shapes and surroundings.

At View Desert you can procure a boat from any of the other resorts likewise they will put you up.

Out on the reef you may cast for muskies or still fish for walleyes. Or you can try the weed line for bass. Do not make the mistake of using a 12 pound test line when you cast for muskies. They run large, therefore, you will be best equipped with a hundred yards of 30 pound test line and a good reel—the level wind is preferable. This reel runs very lightly and for long casting, that is, distance casting, it will give you the best service.

For muskies try artificial or live bait. It depends largely upon weather conditions what these old warriors will take. A cloudy day with a light breeze is best. Under such conditions you can cast all day and your chances will be good for some real sport. If the day is clear and warm, however, get out early—at daybreak—and also just before dark, for at these times the fish will be feeding.

U. S. STEEL SEEKS TO RETIRE BONDS FOR OWN STRENGTH

Plan Will Strengthen Capital Structure, Financial Writer Says

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES

New York—The object of the financing of new stock which the United States Steel Corporation plans to make is to provide funds to retire outstanding bonds. The effect is to strengthen the capital structure.

Let us see what this means. Other things being equal that company which has the largest proportion of stock to bonds is in the most favorable position. Keep in mind the distinction between stocks and bonds. The bondholder is a creditor who must be paid whether profits are large or small, whether business is good or bad. The directors have to make provision for the payment of interest on bonds. Such payments are, as the technical phrase is, "fixed charges."

Now the stockholder can be put off if conditions make that course advisable. There is no compulsion about paying dividends on stock. That is a matter in the discretion of the directors. The early history of American railroads contains many examples of illustrations of the peril involved in a capital structure top-heavy with bonds. When hard times came and income fell off more than once it happened that there was not money enough to pay bond interest and the road was thrown into the hands of a receiver. Not only did the bondholders suffer but in most cases the stockholders lost everything.

Now of course the United States Steel Corporation hardly could be faced with any such difficulty. It is a matter how depressed general business might become. It would be an industrial catastrophe of a magnitude inconceivable to ending interest payments on United States Steel bonds. The refinancing, however, will work out for the benefit of the Steel stockholders in that the directors will hereafter be able to pay out a larger amount of earnings in dividends than they would with the present bonded indebtedness. It is a nice move that will mean the advantage of all concerned.

Approximately 800,000 men are now employed in British coal mines.

KAW DEBATERS WILL SEEK CHAMPIONSHIP OF STATE DISTRICT

Meet Baraboo and Antigo Teams Friday for Honors in This Section

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school debaters will compete for the central Wisconsin district championship Friday against Baraboo and Antigo. If they win they will represent the district in the state finals at Madison in April. Kaukauna made a splendid showing in the sub-district by winning from Shawano.

Antigo scored eight points in the sub-district contest, Baraboo four, and Kaukauna five. The three cities are about on par with each other and a close contest is expected. The affirmative team of Baraboo will debate the Kaukauna negative team at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the high school. Prof. Gladys Borchers of the department of speech of the University of Wisconsin will be judge at the local contest. Members of the Kaukauna affirmative team will travel to Antigo to debate with its negative team.

The question of debate is "Resolved that the primary system of nominating all state officers, United States senators, and United States representatives should be abolished. Members of the affirmative team who will go to Antigo are Robert Grogan, Roland Beyer, and Peter Hanson. Members of the negative team who will debate in the high school Friday evening will be the Misses Dorothy Goldin, Alice May Whittier and Francis Grogan. Miss Alice May Balgic is alternate. Principal Olin G. Dryer will act as chairman at the debate.

FREE CHEST CLINIC IS EXTENDED FOR ONE DAY

Kaukauna—About 75 students returned to be examined at the high school at the free chest clinic conducted there for three days, so the clinic was extended one day to finish. The clinic started on Monday and will finish Thursday. About 350 students will have been examined by three doctors. The clinic has been held under auspices of the Kaukauna Woman's club and the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association.

Examinations were started with the beginning of the school session in the morning and ended in the afternoon at 3:30. The students were examined during study periods so that there was no loss of time in the classes. Examinations were made of the heart, lungs, throat and teeth. Each pupil was personally advised as to what to do to keep in the best of health.

FLAMING ARROW WILL OFFER HEALTH TALKS

Kaukauna—Flaming Arrow, an Indian, will give a series of health talks in the city schools next Tuesday and Wednesday, according to Miss Cell Flynn, city nurse. A schedule is being arranged for both days and all the school students will have a chance to hear the Indian health speaker who is sent out by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. The talks will be directed on the general health, and care of the body. Arrangements to have the speaker appear in Kaukauna were made through the Kaukauna Woman's club.

Each of the talks of Flaming Arrow are illustrated with toyon sketches which he makes while he lectures. He will appear in Appleton Monday at the Appleton schools.

EASTER VACATION TO START NEXT THURSDAY

Kaukauna—Easter vacation for students in the city schools will begin on Thursday, March 28, and end Tuesday, April 2. It has been announced. The three-day vacation will be the last recess for the students until the end of the school term in June. The vacation for the Vocational school will begin on Tuesday, March 26, and end on Tuesday, April 2.

DENTAL CLINIC FOR THIS WEEK PUT OFF

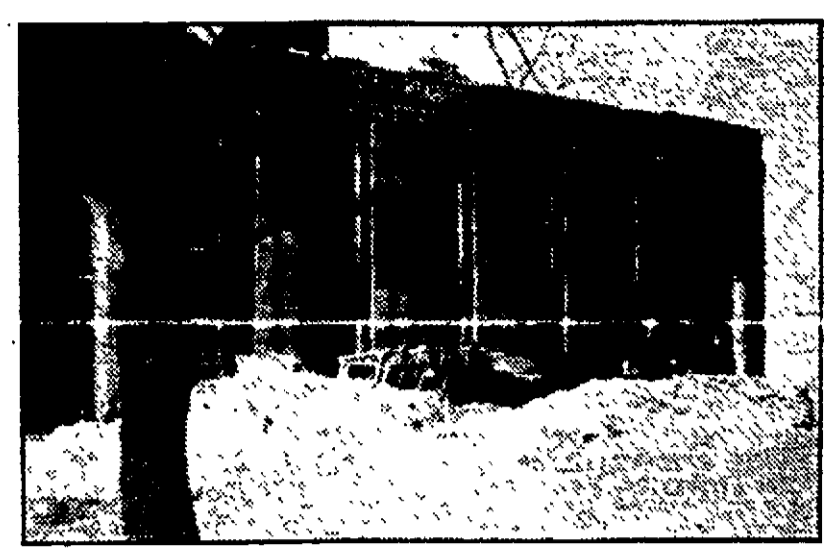

Kaukauna—There will be no dental clinic this Friday afternoon for grade school students. Miss Cell Flynn, city nurse, announced Wednesday. Examination of the school children's teeth could not be made this week on account of the chest clinic held at the high school. The series of clinics will be resumed Friday of next week.

Springtime is PAINT TIME

MAKE A LIST OF THE THINGS THAT NEED PAINT

You'll be surprised how many there will be. Some have been overlooked for years. Go from room to room and make a note of the dingy places, whether it be the kitchen shelves or floors, or the woodwork in the bedrooms. The walls, too, may need a coat of paint while some of the furniture will take on new life when painted in the new popular colors.

Bring this list to us and we will lend assistance in selecting the best materials for each purpose.

MAYOR BESEECHES COUNCIL TO WATCH ITS EXPENDITURES

Asks Sixth Ward Aldermen to Withdraw Resolution for Sewer Extension

Vehement protest against all unnecessary expenditures was made by Mayor A. C. Rule at a meeting of the common council Wednesday evening when the city clerk read a resolution from Aldermen Vogt and Refke asking for an extension of the storm sewer on Brewster-st.

"Gentlemen, I want to tell you now that I am going to make a most determined effort from now on to prevent the expenditure of any funds unless absolutely necessary," the mayor said. "Every year this administration has been finding itself from $200,000 to $250,000 in debt to the banks when the year ended and I believe it is time we begin to think about getting out of this hole."

"We are faced with the construction of the subway and interceptor sewer and we have a paving program planned. These things we cannot avoid. But we can stop spending money needlessly. The city must get out of the hole sometime and I propose to take the preliminary steps at once. I will ask Aldermen Vogt and Refke to withdraw this resolution and present it again in April after the new council meets."

Alderman Vogt then told the council that people living on this street suffered the inconvenience and discomfort of flooded cellars practically every time there was a heavy rain.

DESCRIPTS FLOOD LOSSES

"They suffer loss to materials stored in their basements and I believe that we have no more worth while project in this city that the protection and safe guarding of the people who pay the taxes," Alderman Vogt said. "However I agree the mayor that the city must get out of the hole and taxes should be reduced and I am willing to withdraw my resolution until April. But if there is any chance at all, the sewer should be installed this spring."

The council approved a resolution appropriating $1,000 to be used in a city-wide health clinic at which all school children are to receive complete examinations. The work is to be carried on by the board of health and examinations will be conducted under supervision of the Outagamie County Medical Society.

Alderman W. H. Vosters' protests that the council should not be hasty in adopting the bus ordinance as revised in the new city code were without effect on the rest of the council and the measure was approved by a vote of 10 to 1. The ordinance provides for a license fee on the ton-mile basis as is now used by the state. The revised ordinances on sanitation and governing animal sales in the city also were passed.

Copies of the newly revised city ordinances in loose-leaf book form were presented to the common council. The councilmen gave a rising vote of thanks to the committee and revisor for their fine work. Members of the committee are: Aldermen George Richard, chairman, Mark Catlin and C. D. Thompson. The Rev. E. Keller, Keller and O'Leary was in charge of the revision.

FIRE ESTIMATED AT $12,000 DESTROYS BARN AND CATTLE

Farm Machinery and Feed Also Destroyed in Blaze on Thiel Farm

Fire of unknown origin Thursday morning destroyed a large barn on the Henry Thiel farm, route 1, Appleton. Fifteen calves were killed and most of the farm equipment in the barn was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $12,000, partly covered by insurance, according to Mr. Thiel.

Nearby farmers tried to check the flames. They succeeded in keeping the flames from nearby buildings. The barn contained approximately 10 tons of hay and some grain.

The fire was discovered by Carlton and Henry Thiel, Jr., and summoned the aid of other farmers. A bucket brigade failed to check the flames. Horses and cows were driven from the building before the fire reached the side walls, but 15 calves were imprisoned in the flaming east end of the barn. Most of the farm machinery was kept in another wing of the building which could not be reached because of the dense smoke.

The farm is located about 4 1/2 miles west of Appleton.

DEATHS

HARRY THIERS

Harry Thiers, 10 son of John Thiers, 207 Crooks-ave, Kaukauna, died at 10:30 Wednesday morning following an illness of less than a day. Taken ill about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, a doctor was called, but the youth continued to grow weaker until his death.

Born in Kaukauna Jan. 15, 1910, he had been a resident of that city since. The father is the only survivor.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Emmanuel Reformed church, with the Rev. E. Worthman in charge. Burial will be in Union cemetery.

SIMON GUTHU

Funeral services for Simon Guthu will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the Wichman Funeral home, with the Rev. Philip A. Frohke in charge. The body will be taken to Iola, where funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church. The Rev. Mr. Lewis will conduct the services at Iola. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery at Iola.

TWO DIVORCES AND ONE ANNULMENT IS GRANTED BY JUDGE

Appleton Woman, Charging Drunkenness, Is Awarded Divorce

One annulment and two divorces were granted by Judge Theodore Berg of municipal court Wednesday afternoon.

The annulment was given to Mrs. Julia A. Desmond, 35, Hortonville, from her husband, John E. Desmond, 35, Green Bay. Mrs. Desmond charged false pretenses and the suit was not contested. The Desmonds were married in Hortonville on June 20, 1928, and separated Sept. 1, 1928.

The plea for an annulment or divorce from his wife, Martha Cordes, 29, Appleton, was denied by Judge Berg to Charles Cordes, 36, Appleton, and Mrs. Cordes was granted an absolute divorce on her counterclaim.

Cordes charged his wife with misrepresentation. She fought the case, which was in court Monday, and counterclaimed her husband was a drunkard and failed to support her faithfully. The court gave her custody of a minor child and ordered Cordes to pay $20 a month toward support of the child.

Mrs. Minnie Vosters, 37, town of Freedom, was awarded an absolute divorce from her husband, William Vosters, 43, town of Freedom farmer. Mrs. Vosters charged her husband with drunkenness and failure to support her and their four minor children. Mr. Vosters denied the charges and fought the case. Mrs. Vosters was awarded possession of a farm and she must pay her husband $500 in cash. The farm bears an $11,500 mortgage.

The Vosters were married May 3, 1911, and separated Nov. 27, 1928.

PLAN INSTRUCTION FOR SCHOOLS WITH RADIO AS TEACHER

Nationwide System Is Planned as Test to Prove Project Is Successful

BY ROBERT MACK

Washington—Classroom instruction via the radio on a nationwide scale is the next great step in program development under contemplation by the enterprising broadcasting chains.

Such has been the success of radio instruction in communities where it has been tried, that the national networks are preparing to invade the field. The first of the two great chains to exploit the newest phase of broadcasting is the Columbia Broadcasting system, which has already crystallized its plan in cooperation with the National Education Association. It will inaugurate its "national radio assembly" next fall.

over its 43-station network, according to Sam Pickard, former radio commissioner and vice president of the system.

The National Broadcasting company, on the other hand, is "making haste slowly," to use the words of its president, M. H. Aylesworth. As yet it has appointed no permanent educational director but is conducting a variety of educational experiments to guide its future policy. Foremost among its cultural and educational programs is the Walter Damrosch musical appreciation hour, designed especially for primary schools but the N. B. C. has not yet entered the field of education proper.

There are 25,000,000 school children in the country, who are potential students of the "school of the air," Mr. Pickard states. To the country schoolhouse as well as to the institutions of the cities, subject hitherto untouched by most schools will be brought. Master instructors, selected by the National Education Association, will conduct the classes.

Noted figures in the administrative life of the nation, on special occasions, will recount to their juvenile audiences, the actual events which go down in history. The plan is to supplement and broaden the present curriculum, of schools, both public and private, rather than to supplant them.

PLANS UNDER WAY

Preliminary plans of the Columbia service already are under way to equip schools with receiving sets

Revolt Brings Demand For Books On Mexico

With all eyes centered on Mexico, books about the history, civilization, development and political situation of the rebel infested country are in increased demand at the public library. One of the most recent books about Mexico, "Mexico and Its Heritage" by Guernsey, is particularly popular and can be found on the popular non-fiction.

The book embraces in its scope the political, social, economic and cultural history of Mexico, together with the vexatious problems of the present. The book is the product of extensive travel and observation in modern Mexico and a close study of Mexican history and literature. On the whole, though the book makes us realize that Mexico is still sick with its three hundred years of political oppression and social frustration, it manages to quicken both interest and expectation far beyond anything that has yet appeared on the subject.

Other books about Mexico include: "A Mexican Antiquities," Evans; "Some Spurious Antiquities," Holmes; "Studies on the Archaeology of Mexico," Dr. Leon; "Boundary Between the United States and Mexico," International Boundary Commission; "Mexico," Baedeker; "Mexico," Carpenter; "Viva Mexico," Flindrau; "Tramping Through Mexico, Guatemala and Honduras," Franck; "Mexico of Today," Griffin; "Beautiful Mexico," Quinn; "White Umbrella in Mexico," Smith; "Being a Boy," Warner; "Mexico and Her People of Today," Winter; "Mexico," Hale; "Awakening of a Nation," Sumner; "From the Empire to the Republic," Noll; "Short History of Mexico," Noll; "A Diplomat's Wife in Mexico," O'Shaughnessy; "Intimate Pages of Mexican History," O'Shaughnessy; "History of the Conquest of Mexico," Prescott; "The Mexican Nation," Priestley.

REBATE COMMITTEE ALLOWS OIL PROTESTS

All rebate petitions for oiling streets were allowed by the rebate committee Tuesday afternoon. Other rebate petitions protested sewer, street, sidewalk, water and pavement assessment. Meetings of the planning commission and board of public works scheduled for Tuesday afternoon were postponed.

LONG AIR TRIP

London—One of the longest air lines in the world is being contemplated between London and Cape Town. The route, more than 8,000 miles long, will branch off at Cairo, crossing over into India.

and loud speakers. Some schools now have reception apparatus, and locally have been most successful in "radio instruction." In Hartford, Conn., Chicago, Atlanta, Toledo, Oakland, Calif., and Cleveland the system has been in operation, either by means of receivers in the classrooms themselves or in assembly halls.

Columbia will begin its radio assembly with the fall term of public schools. The exact hour of radio tuition has not been determined, although 11 to 12 o'clock has been suggested because at that time classes in all parts of the country can be reached, despite the difference in time in the various sections. Such subjects as history and citizenship, music appreciation, geography and health and hygiene first will be treated by Columbia. In every case nationally-known leaders will discuss them.

It is understood that an outstanding philanthropist is to endow the Columbia assembly. By so doing the educational periods would be kept free of advertising or commercialism.

START WORK ON NEW GIBSON AUTO SHOP

New Three Story Building Will Go Up on Old Site

Construction work on the new Gibson Tire company building on W. College-ave on the site of the structure destroyed by fire several weeks ago is well underway. The work is being done by the C. R. Meyer Construction company of Oshkosh.

Most of the old building has been razed, but parts of the east and west walls which are constructed of heavy cement blocks were left standing. The new building will be 47 feet wide and 52 feet long, according to A. Gibson, Jr., Oshkosh.

The new garage is to be three stories high, but only two stories are to be constructed this spring and a temporary roof will cover the structure, according to Mr. Gibson. The third story probably will be added next fall. The company will occupy the first floor and most of the second and the third story probably will be divided into office suites for rental.

NEEDED DRINK BAD

Akron, O.—Grover Cleveland Johnson didn't care whether his drink was good or not—he needed one bad. So he went around draining anti-freeze mixtures from radiators of automobiles until he had about 15 gallons of the fluid. Then he got drunk and fell into the clutches of the law. Marshals made it so hard to get a drink, he said, that he had to tap radiators.
